2 'SURPRISE' ENTRIES FILE FOR CONGRESS

Frank Cave, Ex-Speaker Of Ohio House and Ben West To Oppose Ashbrook.

3 IN G. O. P. CONTEST

Davey-Sawyer, White-Bulkley And Taft-Day Races Top State Primary.

Headed by the 17th district congressional races which drew seven candidates—four Democrats and three Republicans—for the post now held by William A. Ashbrook, Democrat, the August primary campaign was off to a lively start today with approximately 200 candidates filed with the Richland county board of elections.

Unexpected primary opposition for the veteran Ashbrook, who is seeking his 10th term in congress, appeared five minutes before the filing deadline last night when Ben West of Mt. Vernon, a brother of former congressman Charles West, and Frank Cave, Richland county's state representative for six years and former speaker of the Ohio house, filed on the Democratic ticket. The other Democratic aspirant is Lee Purdy, of Coshocton county.

Backed By Townsend Clubs.

Republicans in the 17th district, which includes Richland and five other counties, will choose between Philip Wolfe, Mansfield; Walter B. Woodward, Bellville, and Col. Oliver Dockery of Newark.

Wolfe is a former state senator and representative and Mansfield service-safety director under Mayor Earl A. McFarland, while Woodward is a retired teacher. Col. Dockery is a retired army officer. Woodward has the backing of Townsend clubs in the county.

State Has Stellar Contests.

In the state political picture, the stand-out contests will be between Gov. Martin L. Davey and Charles Sawyer for the Democratic nomination for governor and for the Republican and Democratic nominations for U. S. senator.

The senatorial races will pit former Governor George White of Marietta against Senator Robert Bulkley of Cleveland in Democratic ranks, and Judge Arthur H. Day of Cleveland against Robert Taft, Cincinnati, for the G. O. P. nomination.

John Bricker, unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1936, is unopposed for the Republican nomination for governor.

Last night's filing deadline failed to produce opposition in either party for Norman L. Wolfe, Richland county auditor, who filed for re-election on the Democratic ticket. Wolfe will have no opponent in the November election.

C. L. Mitchell, incumbent Democratic county commissioner, will be unopposed at the primary, and in the fall election will run against

NAMED AGAIN

Homberger Postmaster Nomination Goes To Senate.

Postmaster Herman E. Homberger serving his first term as head of the Mansfield post office, was renominated for that post by President Roosevelt today. His nomination was sent to the senate along with those of 1,000 others, dispatches from Washington said.

Included in the list or nominations were John L. O'Hara, New London, and Charles O. Frederick, Norwalk.

Homberger, who served as service-safety director under former Mayor Charles M. Lantz was appointed postmaster in 1934 by the president. He succeeded Harry E. Hawley, a Republican.

A Huge Army Bomber Roars Steadily Across Illinois

AFTER — —

Plane a Tangled Mass of Wreckage, Eight Men Dead

For all practical purposes, these two pictures might have been taken only a minute apart. At the top is shown the huge U. S. Army bomber, with eight fliers aboard, making a routine flight from Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill., to Denver, Colo. Lashed by a furious storm, and apparently hit by lightning yesterday afternoon, the plane crashed in a field near Delevan, Ill., carrying all eight of its crew to death.

CITES 3 CAUSES FOR AIR CRASH

Head Of Army Probers Says Lightning, Handling Or Air Currents Killed 10.

(By United Press)

DELAVIN, Ill.—Major Roy W. Chamblin, said today that the giant army bomber which crashed near here yesterday, killing three officers and five enlisted men, "apparently disintegrated" in the air, either from lightning, rough handling or severe air currents.

The plane, a silver, twin-motored Douglas, plunged through black storm clouds shortly before noon and was struck by swirling winds of a violent thunderstorm as the pilot attempted to glide it to a soybean field. The right wing sheared off and the ship crashed from an altitude of 500 feet and burned, scattering wreckage and bodies of the victims over a quarter of a mile of the field.

Witnesses said the ship was streaking flames before it fell.

It was returning to Denver, Colo., from a routine training flight to the U. S. army base—Chanute Field—at Rantoul, Ill. The crash occurred on the farm of Carey Youle, a mile and a quarter northeast of Delavan. The town is in central Illinois, 15 miles south of Peoria.

Major Chamblin, head of a special army board of investigation from Chanute Field, was the last of 13 witnesses who testified last night before a coroner's jury. The jury returned an open verdict that the victims died from causes unknown.

Taggers Hear 'No' But It's Said With Smile

Three Out of Four Decline to 'Give Again' In Fund Clean-up, But Still Dollars Come In to Cut Down Budget Deficit.

By JANE WILLIAMS

Mansfielders can say "No" definitely and firmly, but most of them say it with a smile.

More than 75 girls and women who took part in today's "Tag Day" for the Community Fund, on the down town streets, found that most men and women are courteous even when they refused to "give again."

At 9 a. m. today, preceded by the broadcasting truck which announced the purpose of the day, they took to the streets equipped with a flock of bright orange tags bearing the inscription "I've Given Again."

About one out of every four persons approached gave something. Two pretty girl solicitors had worked out their own approach. "If the person looks kinda prosperous we suggest anything from a 'dollar down' as a gift, but if they look a little hard up, we suggest anything from a 'dime up'," they reported

A Few 'Meanies.'

Although they approached their task with some misgiving this morning, few of them encountered real "meanies." One woman responded with "Nuts to you!" but then she probably has a very limited vocabulary and couldn't think of the word "No."

City officials at City building, who probably are hit harder and oftener than any other class of persons in Mansfield, gave with a smile, one of them even contributing his lunch money for today.

500 CAPTURED

Fascists 'Annihilate' Spanish Government Battalion.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Border —(INS)— An entire Spanish government battalion was "annihilated" and 500 government troops were captured today in heavy fighting in the Useras sector, northwest of Castellon De La Plana, according to a Salamanca communique.

The announcement issued by General Francisco Franco's high command also declared that the village of Ortaneda in the tremp sector near the Franco-Spanish border had been captured from government defense forces.

Insurgent planes, it was stated, raided government airdromes, destroying many machines on the ground. Seven government aircraft were shot down in a series of aerial duels.

Mansfield Chosen By U. C. T. as 1939 Convention City

Mansfield will be host next June to the state convention of the United Commercial Travelers. Meeting in their annual convention in Marietta, the organization voted late yesterday to come to Mansfield in 1939.

This city was chosen in a contest which developed spirited competition from Sandusky, Alliance and Cincinnati. The 1939 convention is expected to bring about 500 members of the order to Mansfield for two days.

Mansfield's invitation to the convention was presented by Paul W. Williams, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who accompanied the Mansfield U. C. T. delegation to the Marietta convention yesterday.

Telegrams were sent to the convention by a number of Mansfield industrial and business leaders, urging them to select Mansfield as the 1939 convention city.

Heading the Mansfield delegates were Jack Kennedy, grand councilor, who was succeeded in yesterday's election by Charles Lind, Cincinnati, and Charles J. Pittenger, grand chaplain.

CALLS JURY TO SIGN VERDICT IN CASH MURDER

Coroner Acts After McCall Confesses Kidnap-Slaying Was 'Lone Job.'

(By Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla —A coroner's jury was called into session again today to return a formal verdict in the death of James Baily Cash, jr., whose kidnap-slaying was solved fully yesterday with announcement by federal agents of a detailed confession from Franklin Pierce McCall.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said McCall admitted he alone was responsible for abduction of the Princeton, Fla., child. Previously McCall had told of writing three ransom notes and collecting $10,000 from the boy's father.

The 21-year-old unemployed truck driver was under guard in a cell high in Dade county's skyscraper jail.

Examined Death Scene.

The six-man coroner's jury examined "Skeegie's" body Thursday, viewed the spot where it was found several hours earlier and adjorned until today.

Whether the jury actually could determine how the five-year-old kidnap victim died was problematical. The body was in an advanced state of decomposition after lying in the open for 12 days.

Hoover said McCall insisted he had not planned to harm the boy. The signed confession, parts of which were made public, said McCall entered the child's bedroom the night of May 28 and placed two handkerchiefs over his face, one over the eyes and one over the mouth.

Hoover said McCall "lifted the child and walked out of the door through which he had entered and carried the child to his home.

"McCall said the child did not move at any time he held it and he though it was asleep. He entered his home through a rear door and said he tried to awaken the child but found it to be dead."

State Attorney G. A Worley prepared the case for presentation to a special grand jury Monday. He indicated he would ask the jury to charge McCall with murder and kidnaping for ransom—both capital offenses under Florida law.

'WITH REGRET'

Bay State Dems Are Sorry Jimmy Won't Run.

BOSTON —(AP)— James Roosevelt's decision not to run for public office in Massachusetts this fall was accepted today "with regret" by a citizens committee which had suggested his candidacy for lieutenant governor.

The committee, headed by Charles Maliotis of Boston, a Democratic state committeeman, said in a statement it still believed the president's eldest son and secretary possessed "the qualifications to serve our state well."

Roosevelt's decision, announced as he arrived by plane from Washington, was contained in a letter handed Maliotis at the airport.

WIMBLEDON, Eng.—(U.P.)—The United States won the Wightman cup from England today for the eighth successive year when Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, defeated Kay Stammers, left-handed English girl, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.

Mrs. Moody's triumph made the score 4-1 in favor of the United States and reduced the remaining two matches of the 16th Annual International Tennis series to exhibitions.

City Acts to Buy First New Fire Apparatus In 15 Years

City officials acted today to buy the first piece of new fire apparatus in 15 years to bolster the city's antiquated fire fighting equipment.

Service-Safety Director Tracy C Styert said that in addition to receiving bids on the new pumper, the board of control also would accept bids on 16 new fire plugs until noon June 27.

Specifications on the new fire truck to be delivered to the city call for a cab truck equipped with a 750-gallon centrifugal pumper, 150-gallon copper booster tank, with the pump having not less than 750 gallons per minute capacity The truck is to be fully equipped with ladders, spotlights and siren, dual tire equipment in the rear, four-wheel hydraulic brakes and to be painted a standard red with gold striping

Accompanying each bid must be a copy of a fire underwriter's 12-hour test covering the pump proposed.

Specifications on the hydrants call for five four-inch plugs with four-inch valves and valve boxes, and 11 five-inch plugs with six-inch valves and valve boxes.

City council May 3 authorized the sale of general bonds within the 10-mill limit, earmarking $8,500 for the purchase of the new pumper and $1,500 for the fire hydrants.

Rescuers Search Debris For Bodies Of Others Missing; Wind Splits Freight Train As Residents Flee To Storm Cellars; 4 Killed In Automobiles.

CLYDE, Tex.—(AP)—A slowly-moving tornado killed 13 persons in this west Texas village of 700 last night, left several missing, injured at least 40 others and shattered two-score houses.

Weary volunteers searched the debris today, fearful that more bodies lay in the wreckage.

Doctors established emergency stations in stores and dressed wounds of the injured, some of whom entered to find the bodies of dead relatives on the floors.

Clyde was isolated several hours when the tornado tore down communications lines, delaying calls for ambulances, doctors, nurses and volunteers from Abilene and other nearby towns.

The Red Cross mobilized its facilities and a detachment of the national guard set up a rolling kitchen.

Like a huge snake, the storm crept upon the town shortly after dusk. Many saw it coming and scrambled to safety inside storm cellars. Others gambled vainly that their houses would withstand the shock.

Freight Train Struck.

The wind split a freight train, tumbling box cars along the rails. At least one transient was killed. Some reports said three were hauled dead from the wreckage.

The known dead:

Mrs. Margaret Ross.
William James De Spain, 4.
Mrs. J. B. Easterling, about 40.
Mrs. J. F. Bonner, 75.
J. E. Graham, 55.
Mrs. J. E. Graham, 55.
Jess Rutledge, 25.
Mrs. Jess Rutledge, 24.
Melvin Kniffen, 17.
James Johnson, 18.
M. E. Sullivan, about 65.
Two unidentified men.

Four were killed when the wind struck their cars. The two machines were found hundreds of yards from the bodies.

The storm did not strike the business district.

Just past the cemetery, about 100 feet south of the school building, which virtually was demolished, there was no trace of the storm. The tornado suddenly lifted and apparently blew itself out.

A violent electrical, rain and hail storm accompanied the wind.

NEW TENSION GRIPS EUROPE

Last Of Czech Elections Puts Powers In State Of 'Nerves' For Week-End.

Europe headed into another set of week-end jitters today by renewed attacks on Czechoslovakia in the controlled German press on the eve of the last of a series of communal elections.

The central European rumbling came close to drowning out the sounds of war in Spain and the Orient.

A Spanish insurgent spearhead had been thrust through fierce government resistance to within eight miles of Castellon De La Plana, principal barrier to conquest of Valencia.

On the other side of the world, Japanese gunboats started a Yangtze river drive on Hankow, provisional Chinese capital, to support an infantry thrust from tottering Chengchow, 300 miles north of Hankow.

The Chinese were waging a desperate rearguard battle to delay Japanese occupation of Chengchow and the overland drive on Hankow.

Apparently speaking the mind of its Nazi masters, Berlin morning newspapers banner-lined the situation between the Czechoslovak government and the clamorous Germanic minority which Adolf Hitler had vowed to "protect."

Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter underscored in red this headline: "Moscow's fist over Prague, thrashing orgy of Czech soldiery." Other newspapers, also pegging their charges on disorders between Czechoslovak forces and Sudeten Germans, struck a similar note in their headlines:

"Czech terror becomes unbearable . . .

"Czech Sadism rampart . . .

"Sudeten Germandom under the knotted whip of Prague soldiery."

DOUBLE PROTEST

Manufacturers Hit By U. S. Condemnation Of Bombings.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary Hull said today this government's condemnation of the bombing of civilians was directed at American manufacturers of bombing planes as well as foreign powers.

The secretary predicted at his press conference that state department pressure would discourage sales of such planes for use against defenseless civilians.

Noting several recent department statements condemning the bombing of civilians in Spain and China, Mr. Hull said the government's present attitude was of course to maintain that position and to say to everybody the United States condemned both the bombing and its material encouragement.

O. K. NEAR ON WAGE-HOUR LAW

South Approves All But Minor Details of Compromise.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Southern members of the joint congressional committee approved today all but minor details of a compromise on wage-hour legislation, paving the way for the committee to finish work on the bill by nightfall.

Other members of the group previously had indicated they would support the compromise, which provides for flexibility in minimum wages above 30 cents an hour.

The compromise would fix 25 cents an hour as the "bedrock" minimum wage the first year, with no exceptions.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, June 12.

Sunday's horoscope is an auspicious one for affairs of the clergy, elders, property and solid investments. These show some encouraging gain in the way of security and stability. But there may be some anxiety in employment where superiors may be critical or exacting. In all matters it would be well to sidestep intrigues and curious or treacherous problems.

Those whose birthday it is may have opportunity for gaining much in the way of establishing their security and stabilizing their fortunes, either by industry, investment, property or the benefices of elders. But placate superiors and be wary of duplicity, secrecy and peculiar conditions.

A child born on this day may be serious, industrious, with sound ideas and ambitions. It may accumulate wealth through investments, property or possibly by trust insurance, inheritance or the favors of elders.

* * *

For Monday, June 13.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a rather unsettled or disturbed state of affairs, although these may not be of major importance. There may be some unlooked-for change of a disquieting rather than formidable nature. A loss or strange contact of a disagreeable tone may prove irritating. But offsetting this there may be harmony, happiness and probably emotional or social gratification.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of much activity, happiness and gratification in their domestic, social, artistic or affectional lives. In business there may be an irritating or perplexing situation caused by a strange or unorthodox adventure, with enmity or malice possible.

A child born on this day may have much solidity of character, and be serious, studious, responsible and hard working. Its rewards may come in the confidence of its friends and intimates who may assist in its substantial success and accumulations.

Two Brides Who Chose June For Weddings

Standing, left above, is Mrs. Joseph Morganstern who was Miss Katherine Bollman, daughter of Oscar Bollman, previous to her marriage last Saturday afternoon at the St. Paul Lutheran church. The bride, who chose her birthday for her wedding day, and Mr. Morganstern are now at home at 4 Glenwood heights. Attired in a formal wedding gown of white satin, was Mrs. Joseph Stephen Frisch, the former Miss Eva Elizabeth Weber shown at the right as she appeared after her wedding June 6. The couple was married in a high mass ceremony performed at St. Peter's Catholic church, by Rev. R. C. Goebel.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

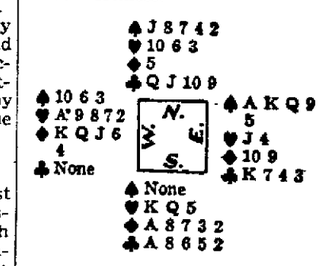
"The Authority on Authorities"

DANGEROUS DOUBLES

Many a game has been handed to opponents by doubles of less than game contracts. Usually some feature of distribution has proved a vital factor in the result. It is especially hazardous to double a two-suiter, especially when the declarer has entered the bidding via the overcall route. Then you should be wary of extra long suits and short suits which he can ruff, perhaps setting up a cross-ruff that makes your own side's honor cards worthless.



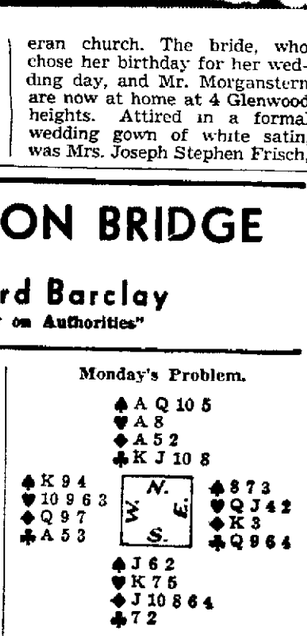
(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West started the bidding of this deal with 1-Heart, North passed, East responded with 1-Spade and South bid 2-Diamonds, which West doubled. When this came around to South, he tried 3-Clubs. West, of course, could not very well double that bid, but East did, because of his partner's previous double.

The hand arose in a duplicate and doubling this contract gave this North-South pair a top score. After the lead of the spade 10, South had a perfect cross-ruff situation and had no difficulty in making his contract.

Had West kept silent after the 2-Diamond call, the contract might have been played there, whereas the double drove South into a far better one. As West could not double clubs, the diamond double was rather dangerous.

Monday's Problem.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.

What is the correct bidding of this hand?

Pre-Nuptial Bridges Given for Bride-to-Be by the Misses Percy, Wagner, White, Conn and Robinson This Week.

TWO pre-nuptial affairs have been given in the past few days for Miss Melverda Birch who will become the bride of Dr. Robert Smith next Saturday. Yesterday afternoon the Misses Ellena Percy and Virginia Wagner entertained at a buffet bridge party at the Percy home on Forest avenue.

There were three tables of bridge in play and the prizes were won by Miss Birch and Miss Eleanora Kremer. The tables were decorated with roses and the buffet table had a centerpiece of a bride and groom. A silver gift was presented by the hostesses.

Thursday evening Miss Birch was feted at a Mexican party given at the home of Miss Florence White, 46 Columbia avenue. She was assisted by the Misses Frances Conn and Hester Robinson. The three hostesses presented her with a set of fiesta ware.

Bridge was played and prizes were awarded to the Misses Katherine Culp and Olive Scott. Mexican decorations were used for the bridge tables and the luncheon table. There were 15 guests present

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"About Hank?" What about Hank?"

Dicky's voice was sharp with surprise, and I found myself suddenly reluctant to tell him what Katherine had advised, involving as it did a derogatory reference to Hank's dead mother. I knew Dicky's favorite of his two sisters had been Harriet Braithwaite, not Elizabeth Harrison. But he had the clan loyalty which is one of the strongest of human emotions, and I was not sure of his reaction to what I was about to tell him.

I had no time to plan my 'approach," so I jumped "plump into the middle of it," as Junior and Roderick so graphically express it.

"Katherine advises taking Hank to a neurotic specialist before he returns to school," I said.

Thought Her Different.

"For the love of Isaiah and all the rest of the prophets! What's eating Katrine?" he exploded.

"I've always thought she was the one nurse in existence who was perfectly sane on the subject of neurosis, and all the fads that dangle along after it. But evidently the bug has bitten her, too. Hank neurotic? If he is, so is everybody else in the house, including Jim. Now there's a good specimen for Katrina's microscope."

I laughed involuntarily at the picture of our stolid Jim being "psychoanalyzed," and Dicky looked approvingly at me.

"I'm glad you can laugh," he said. "That shows you haven't been bitten as badly as Katherine. Tell her to forget it."

"I am afraid I can't do that," I said quietly.

"Why not?" There was sudden belligerence in his tone.

"Because," I went on steadily. "She gave me the advice only because I asked her certain questions concerning Hank."

Madge Tells of Baiting.

His eyes flashed a searching look into mine.

"I imagine this is going to take a little time," he said. "I can see there is something behind this that I don't understand. Go ahead, shoot the works."

I waited a second before replying while I "girded myself for the fray," and then, using as few words as possible, I told him what Katherine and I had discovered about the way Hank had been persecuting Junior, and occasionally Roderick, and what Katherine had observed about the cruel streak in the older boy.

Dicky Is Angered.

I was doubly glad that I had kept silent when I saw his reaction to my tale of Hank's cruel baiting of Junior.

"The young whelp!" he exploded. "I'll show him what a good hiding feels like before I'm five minutes older. That's the only way to cure a bully; give him a dose of his own medicine."

"Dicky! Darling!" I entreated. "You must not do this. Katherine thinks the boy is really not to blame for those traits."

His brows contracted into the heavy frown that spells black anger for him.

"I suppose Katherine means Elizabeth," he said heavily, "and equally, I suppose, you gave her that information."

U. S. Open Field Continues To Chase Picard at Denver

Hershey, Pa., Pro Sets Pace With 140 as Tourney Swings Into Last Day.

By RUSS NEWLAND

DENVER—(AP)—When the sun rolls over the Rockies late today they'll be crowning the 1938 National Open golf champion.

The big show will be over, unless of course, a 72-hole tie resets the stage for a play-off. Such an anti-climax has not taken place since the memorable battle between Billy Burke and George Von Elm in 1931. Burke won at the end of 72 extra holes, a world's record.

Result Uncertain.

One guess was about as good as another as the field of 60 battle-worn survivors marched off for final 36-hole skirmishes with par, uncertain weather, their own temperaments and a mighty tough course known as Cherry Hills.

The push over the half-way mark saw the advantage, slight as it was, hitch-hiking a ride with slender, straight-shooting Henry Picard, of Hershey, Pa.

Picard coupled two fine 70's, good enough to set the pace when time to whittle the field to the 60 low scores arrived.

Observers, who in the past have been taking it on the chin by poor guesses, hesitated to hop on any one of the first nine leaders.

It was Picard or Dick Metz; Harold McSpaden, Emery Zimmerman, Defending Champion Ralph Guldahl; Jimmy Hines, Harry Cooper, Olin Dutra or Willie Hunter and take your choice.

Seventeen equaled or shaded par figures in the second round compared to three super-performances on the preceding day. Softer greens today meant better scores.

One Stroke Behind.

As they swung into the third stage of the battle, Metz, good in golf as well as looks and from Chicago, was on Picard's heels. He had a three-under-par 68 and total 141. McSpaden, from Boston, and the Portland, Ore, "dark horse," Emery Zimmerman, were well on the pace with 142. Defending Champion Guldahl, at 144, considered himself in a fine spot to repeat.

Ohioans who qualified were Billy Burke, Cleveland, 75-79—154; Ray Mangrum, Dayton, 77-77—154, and Tony Penna, Dayton, 78-72—150.

Grandview Invades League Park Sunday

Brings Veteran Team Here To Meet Hi-Speeds.

EARL HERRICK'S Hi-Speeds expected another tough tussle Sunday, but were confident of coming through victorious.

The Hi-Speeds engage the Grandview Independents at League park at 3 p. m. on the Sabbath.

Seeks Sixth Win.

Herrick's crack semi-pro club seeks its sixth triumph of the season against the veteran representative of the Southern Ohio league, which has won three out of six games to date.

Petey Beer, who has lost only one game this season, will go to the mound for the Hi-Speeds, and he also will be trying for his sixth victory.

Lefty Hunter, who checked off 19 strike outs while turning back Johnstown, 5 to 2, last Sunday, is expected to toe the mound for the visitors.

Tippy Karshner, ex-Columbus Aquinas high star, who has not been charged with an error in the outfield for three years, and Harvey Cowgill, hard-hitting second sacker, are other members of the Grandview team.

Probable Lineup.

The Hi-Speeds will line up with Wallace, Ganaway, Bob De Haven and Marty De Haven, infield, and Earl and Clarence Herrick and Schmidt in the outfield. Scott will be behind the plate.

The Mansfield club won a double-header from the Filbey Printers of Akron at Lakeland Beach last Sunday, Beer receiving credit for both victories.

SPECULATOR, N. Max Schmeling likes it so well he has trained here for several of his important jousts . . . until Baer came a cropper against Louis, the Osborne brothers, who run the town, say it had never turned out a loser . . .

The air is tops, the golfing good and it is nice to be back among people who know how to flavor country sausage with a big of garlic, turn out pancakes (with no limit on the molasses) and give you vegetables (cooked in fat-back) and biscuits and corn bread almost as good as the kind mother used to turn out . . . yum, yum.

* * *

Schmeling seems better satisfied here, too. . . . he is more democratic and approachable . . . instead of burying himself far back in the woods as he did at Napanoch while preparing for his his first fight with Louis, he now hangs his hat in a cottage almost directly across the big road from the open arena where he works . . . passing autoists can see him reading on the porch or perhaps shooting arrows at poor Otto Petri, his closest friend, in the yard . . . maybe this bit of friendliness has been responsible for the crowds of from 3,000 to 5,000 paid customers who have been watching his Saturday and Sunday workouts.

Fullager Pitches Third Win of Week Against Beerman

Jimmy Fullager registered his third victory of the week yesterday when he twirled the Beeber-Ross softball club to a 5 to 4 victory over Brownie's Beers in the sports feature of the Strawberry festival at Johns park.

Although permitting 10 hits, Fullager was strong in the pinches, as he struck out six and did not issue a single pass.

Trailing 4 to 3 going into the ninth, the Beeber-Ross combination tallied twice to eke out a victory. Three of the four Beers' runs were scored on home runs by Bride, Voegel and Wentz. Harry Ross socked a pair of circuit clouts for the winners.

Allen's Slit Shirt Displayed By Store

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— If American league baseball fans see fiery Johnny Allen of the Cleveland Indians begging umpires to rule his sweat-shirts illegal they should not be surprised. Allen became incensed Tuesday at Boston when Bill McGowan ordered him to change a shirt that had slit sleeves and when the firebrand pitcher refused to obey the order and walked off the field he was fined $250. However, today had the amount of his fine back for the much-disputed sweat-shirt had been sold to a Cleveland department store.

The sale was made yesterday and the slit-sleeved shirt arrived here by plane last night and was placed on display immediately. So that souvenir hunters will not be able to tear the famous Allen shirt, the window dummy that wears it has been placed in a glass case.

Foresters Win Over Knights

Triumph In Only Game Played In Club League.

SPTS — FORESTERS .. .. ..

In the only game played in the Y. M. C. A. Club softball league yesterday, the undefeated Catholic Foresters trounced the Knights of Columbus, 13 to 3, at Liberty park. The other games were called off because of wet grounds.

The Foresters never trailed after taking a 4 to 0 lead in the first inning. They tallied two more in the fifth, another pair in the sixth and finished their scoring with five in the eighth while Graf and Gilde kept the Knights' nine hits scattered.

L. Hetler of the Knights and Malaska of the Foresters hit for the circuit.

MANSFIELD baseball boosters will put on their day for the American Legion entry in the Central Ohio semi-pro league at the Fairground at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

Sunday has been designated as Boosters' Day, and a city-wide ticket campaign has been conducted to assure a large crowd for the event.

Meet Lancaster.

The Legionnaires, tied for fourth place with Coshocton, will engage the Lancaster Moose in Sunday's ball game.

If Coshocton wins Sunday, a victory is necessary for the Legion club to retain a first division berth. Lancaster can pass Manager Dewey Durant's men if it wins Sunday.

Defeated two games in a row, Durant believes that the Legionnaires have been strengthened sufficiently to turn in a triumph Sunday.

Several new players, including Ed Chatlain, former Mansfield high school athlete, will join the club this week-end.

Durant will start either Donald Dudley, a right hander, who recently returned from a tryout with one of the St. Loius Cardinal-operated clubs, of Aid Geiger.

The Mansfield infield consisting of Charley Baker, Dick Donnan, Junior Keester and Freddy Lewis will remain intact, while the outfield will probably include Tommy Moxley, Dale Leedy and Chatlain. Durant will do the catching.

Mansfield will undoubtedly be opposed by Peters, who allowed only six hits last Sunday to hand Coshocton its second defeat of the season. The Moose won at the expense of Al Veigel, who hurled for the Mansfield Red Sox last year. Veigel recently joined Coshocton after his release by Moultrie, Ga.

Prices Increased.

As Sunday's Booster Day is being played to obtain finances to assure the continuation of the Legion club in the semi-pro league, the admission price has been increased to 40 cents. The increase in price will prevail only for this game, however, Business Manager Brownie Corcoran announced.

Miami Boy Sets New Spear Record

MILWAUKEE—(U.P.)—An American javelin record by Larry Bell of Miami university, Oxford, was one of the six marks which had been established here today in the 13th annual central college conference track and field championships.

Bell, holder of the Buckeye conference record for his specialty, hung up the new American record when he tossed the spear 231 feet, 7¼ inches. The team championship was won by Notre Dame with an aggregate of 37 points. Miami was seventh in the field of 22 schools with 11 points.

SHILOH LIONS HOSTS TO FREDDIES SUNDAY

The Shiloh Lions will be hosts to Fredericktown at Farrell field, Shiloh, Sunday at 2:30 p. m. The Lions will be seeking their third victory in five games. The Lions will entertain the Cleveland Shamrocks a week from tomorrow.

CINCINNATI ACQUIRES INFIELDER IN TRADE

CINCINNATI —(U.P.)— The acquisition of a rookie infielder and the release of a veteran pitcher were announced here today by General Manager Warren Giles of the Cincinnati Reds. Giles announced the Reds had secured Justin Stein, 24-year-old infielder from the Philadelphia Phillies in a trade for Baxter Jordan; and had given Ray Benge his unconditional release.

STARRETT NAMED FROSH COACH AT KENT STATE

KENT—John Starrett, Tiffin Junior Order athletic director for nine years, today was named freshman coach at Kent State. Starrett formerly played the outfield for the Tiffin Ohio State league club and is an umpire in the circuit this season.

DIRT TRACK DRIVERS RACE AT MEDINA SUNDAY

MEDINA—Fifteen of the country's outstanding dirt track auto race drivers are now entered in the five-card inaugural speed classic at the Medina fairground race track Sunday. Last minute entries from drivers entered in the races at Altoona, Pa., Saturday may raise the total to 20 to compete in the events.

First Game Winners Inaugurate Schedule at Home Parks Monday

WINNERS of opening games in city recreation Class A softball league will inaugurate their home ends of the schedule Monday night when play is resumed in Mansfield's premier circuit.

North Park, which edged Prospect in an opener last week, is host to Liberty Park, and Johns Park entertains the Prospecters.

Both of the lid lifting games were decided by one run, and the results of next week's tilts will be watched with interest as they will establish a better line on the respective strength of the pennant chasers.

The Northerners were forced to go 11 innings to topple Prospect last Monday after the losers tied it up in the eighth with a four-run rally.

Garver, who scattered eight hits obtained by the Prospects, will probably oppose Liberty Park Monday.

Jimmy Fullager, undoubtedly, will go on the mound for the Johnnies as they attempt to register their second straight win. Fullager was found for 11 safeties in the opener by the Liberties, and as this total is larger than he usually permits, Prospect has hopes of gaining the win column.

Play Sunday On Foreign Ball Fields

Two Mansfield Teams Home For Games Today.

Two baseball games were on schedule for Mansfield addicts on the home diamonds today.

Ling's Canzols were billed to engage the Mansfield colored Giants at Tillman's park, while the Rex Billiards were scheduled to meet Johnsville at League park. Johnsville holds one decision over the Cuemen this year.

* * *

All of the Mansfield clubs will be in action Sunday on foreign fields except the Legionnaires and Hi-Speeds, who will entertain the home fans.

* * *

The Canzols will go to Perrysville Sunday to meet the Merchants, winners over the Mohican Chevrolets last week. Moody, a 43-year-old pitcher, will probably oppose the Canzols' Boyer on the mound.

* * *

John Stoner's Rex team goes to Lucas for a single game Sunday. Moore will twirl for the Billiards.

* * *

The Mohican Chevrolets will make their second appearance of the season Sunday at Shelby Settlement. Manager Bob Martin requests all Mohican players to report at the Smokehouse at 12:30 p. m. Arbaugh probably will hurl for the defending city champions.

* * *

The Estes Coal & Ice baseball team is scheduled to perform at Ontario at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

Harry Smith Plans To Quit as Prexy

COLUMBUS—(INS)—The Ohio State Baseball league may have a new president next week. Harry Smith, Columbus, president and founder of the Class D circuit, said today he would tender his resignation at a meeting next week. Disagreement over league matters resulted in officials of the Fremont, Fostoria, Tiffin and Findlay clubs seeking Smith's retirement.

Tigers, Chisox Warn Leaders

Detroit's Hopes Buoyed By Return of Bridges.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Two second division clubs in the American league, the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago White Sox, today warned the top-ranked clubs that they will make trouble the remainder of the season. The Tigers and the White Sox now appear to have hit a winning stride and are ready to bid for first division places.

Detroit's chances were buoyed during the current week when Tommy Bridges, its diminutive pitching ace who has been on the sidelines with an injured elbow, returned to action and yesterday Rookie Harry Eisenstat, making his first appearance since he suffered a head injury during the Tigers' last home stay, came through with a neat relief trick to further strengthen the mound staff.

Eisenstat relieved Elden Auker after six innings and gave up only two hits in the remaining four innings as the Tigers took a 7 to 6 decision in 10 innings from Washington. A fluke double by Rudy York accounted for the winning run.

The bright spot in the recent play of the White Sox has been the return to form of Monty Stratton, the gangling mound ace of the Chicagoans. Stratton won his fourth contest yesterday as the White Sox trounced Boston 15 to 2. Stratton helped his own cause by hitting a home run with the bases full.

HEMSLEY ON SIDELINES THREE MORE WEEKS

CLEVELAND—(INS)—The Cleveland fans, who are taking their baseball seriously nowadays, were disturbed today by the definite announcement that Rollie Hemsley will be out of action for two or three more weeks.

Hemsley, the playboy catcher, has been out since May 29 with a broken finger. Although the injury is mending satisfactorily, Rollie won't start working out for 10 days and will be unable to resume regular action for two or three weeks, according to Dr. Edward B. Castle, club physician.

HOFF DRAWS RELEASE FROM PENNINGTON GAP

Russell Hoff, Mansfield boy, has been released by the Pennington Gap, Va., team of the Appalachian league, according to a story this week in the Sporting News, national baseball weekly. Hoff has been unable to do much pitching this year because of a back injury.

Allen to Toe Mound Today, Feller Sunday

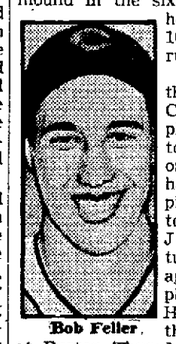
Tribe Must Win Both to Return With Fair Lead.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—A pitching staff that was widely heralded as the finest in the American league had collapsed here today and the Cleveland Indians as a consequence saw their pennant hopes take a severe setback.

The Indians lost the first encounter of their crucial series with the New York Yankees yesterday by an 8 to 2 count and had their lead shaved to 2½ games.

Belted Out.

Earl Whitehill, veteran southpaw who started in the box for the Tribe, was belted off the mound in the sixth inning after he had given up 10 hits and seven runs.



Bob Feller

In their swing through the east Cleveland has played 10 games to-date and in only two of those has the starting pitcher managed to go the route. Johnny Allen turned the trick against Philadelphia and Mel Harder staggered through a game at Boston Thursday even though hit extremely hard.

Manager Oscar Vitt now faces his severest test since he took over the reins of the Indians. The club must win both of the remaining games here to return home with anything resembling a comfortable lead. In an effort to accomplish that Vitt will send Firebrand Johnny Allen to the box today and follow with Bob Feller tomorrow.

Whitehill, in common with other Indian pitchers in the past two weeks, made a habit of throwing "home run" balls and it led to his swift departure from the mound.

The southpaw was nicked for circuit drives in the second and fourth by Bill Dickey, and one in the fifth inning by Lou Gehrig.

The Yanks scored once in the second, three times in the fourth, once in the fifth and twice in the sixth off Whitehill and added the final counter in the seventh at the expense of Denny Galehouse.

Yields Seven Hits.

"Lefty" Gomez, hurling for the Yanks, gave Cleveland only seven hits.

The Indians scored both their runs in the third on Frankie Pytlak's triple, singles by Lyn Lary and Bruce Campbell and a double by Sammy Hale. After that Gomez settled down and was invincible the remainder of the way.

Lary led the Indians' feeble attack with two hits in three trips to the plate. He was the only Tribe player to secure more than one safety.

CHAPTER XXVI

"If he hasn't found anything, I'm sure he will. I think he's that kind. The offer, of course, will have to come from you!"

"Sure, sure. I will send for him and tell him I'm not so good any more. Maybe it would be kidney troubles."

"Whatever it is, make it stick," Clay smiled. "Anything, just so I am not suspected. I hope it goes through and I can't tell you how much I appreciate your kindness."

"It is you who are kind, Mr. Odell. After all, ten dollars is ten dollars. I will get word to the boy as soon as I am able."

"Fine." Clay rose and prepared to leave. "I only hope our plot works. If you don't see me in here so often, you will understand. I can't take any chances."

"Sure, sure, Mr. Odell. You can trust Mama and me."

* * *

He hoped so, Clay was thinking to himself as he started for the office. It all had turned out better than he dared hope, so far as Mr. and Mrs. Schloss were concerned. It would be a considerable weight lifted from his mind and conscience, if young Layne only would rise to the bait.

The following Sunday morning found Clay feeling unusually weary and depressed. The sun was shining brightly, but he lingered wakefully in the depths of his big black walnut bed. For some reason, he couldn't muster any enthusiasm for early breakfast, the sight of Romulus in his dreary Sunday clothes busied with that unspeakable mackerel and boiled potatoes. And there was no urge to have coffee and ride down to the office and attempt to lose himself in work.

What he should do on such a gorgeous day was to take the canoe and go for a long paddle on the lake. And he didn't believe he could. He couldn't leave the memory of Larry ashore. She would be there with him, her wistful eyes looking into his. Queer that all those memories never eased in the sharpness of their hurt. It was worse than ever today.

He roused himself to utter a disinterested, "Well?" when a tap sounded on the panel of his door.

"I brought you a pot of coffee, Mr. Clay," said Annie Kime, Wardlaw's housekeeper. "I decided you wasn't comin' down. Mr. Wardlaw just started for church."

"Oh, thanks!" Clay leaped from his bed and donned a light silk robe, thrust his bare feet into a pair of slippers and pattered to the door. As he took the tray from Annie's hands, she remarked.

"I suppose I couldn't do up your room while you're drinkin' that could I? I want to go visitin' this evenin' awhile."

"I don't see why not," Clay replied, with an attempt at a smile. "Jeremy went with Uncle, didn't he?"

"Shucks! Go and wash your face. It won't take me but a minute."

She was plumping up the pillows vigorously when Clay returned from the bathroom and dropped into a chair beside the table where the coffee pot waited. "Very sweet of you, Annie," he smiled. "It's just what I needed."

"Oh, no it isn't!" she retorted brusquely. "I been layin' off to tell you so, too. I reckon I shouldn't, but it seems like I can't hold in much longer."

"Go ahead," Clay encouraged with a grin. "I'll stop you, if you get out of bounds."

"I was goin' to say that what you need is to be turned over somebody's knee. What I want to know is, what's the matter with you and Mr. Wardlaw? You act like a dog and cat when you're around each other. Only you don't eat enough to keep a cat alive...."

"Nothing unusual, I guess." Clay's smile vanished. "We're both pretty busy these days. Times aren't so good. There's a lot to worry over."

"Well, you're worrin' plenty."

* * *

Annie passed her dust cloth carefully over the carving on the bed's footboard. Then her sharp chin came up with a courageous tilt.

"What's happened between you and that little Layne girl? Times ain't so good there, either, are they?"

"Why, nothing. What makes you ask?"

"What makes me ask? Do you think I ain't never seen a man in love before? You ain't been at all the same since you stopped goin' to see her. Don't ask me how I know it, because I ain't the only one who does. More'n that, I could almost put a date on it..."

"This is a remarkable community, Annie. In more ways than one."

* * *

There was weariness in Clay's attitude, rather than any resentment.

"You been mopin' ever since Larry's brother lost his job. He's workin,' now. Got a job with Schloss." She looked at him shrewdly.

"That's fine."

"Yep. But that an't helpin' you any. Mr. Clay..." Annie seated herself suddenly in a nearby chair.

"Well?"

"I believe I'm goin' to tell you what's on my mind. I guess I shouldn't....on Mr. Wardlaw's account. It ain't right, considerin' he always treated me fair'n square. But I've seen enough unhappiness in this old house to sicken a body. Somehow, it don't seem right to pass it along to you when you've done nothin' and got your life ahead of you."

"What in the world do you mean, Annie?" Clay put down his cup with a sharp glance into her lean face. He sensed suddenly that he was about to hear something of importance. Mrs. Kime's eyes met his unwaveringly.

"I told you I could almost put a date on it. It was just about the time young Layne lost his job. Mr. Wardlaw had Jeremy drive him to Laynes' house for a call. He was there for most half an hour."

"Are you sure!" Clay half rose from his chair.

"I wouldn't tell you if I wasn't. Jeremy said one of the Layne girls answered the door. He thought it was Larry."

Clay Odell sank back limply in his seat as a realization of what Mrs. Kime's information might mean dawned upon him.

"Good Lord!" was all he could say.

"Well, I've told you," Wardlaw's housekeeper remarked crisply, rising to go.

"And you're pretty positive about the date?"

"Absolutely. Jeremy told me that night....asked me if I didn't think it was funny for Mr. Wardlaw to be makin' an afternoon call. I told him to keep his mouth shut. And now I come blabbin' it to you. But I ain't sorry. Not even if it gets me into a mess."

"Don't worry," was the grim assurance.

"Well, if it puts some gimp into you that's all I want." She picked up the tray and disappeared.

* * *

Clay proceeded to shave and dress. It all was like waking from some dream. Now, he could understand why he had received that decisive note from Larry, that later rebuff on the street. If Romulus had called upon her with some sort of a proposal or, worse still, a threat, Larry might easily have been persuaded that it was Clay's own wish. He could imagine how humiliated and furious she must have been. And this made it easy to guess why Griff had been visited by the old gentleman's wrath.

Clay went out on the sunlit lawn for a few breaths of fresh air. He musn't jump at conclusions too rapidly, and particularly before he saw his uncle. When he started something there, he he must be sure of the facts. And there was but one sure source of information. Larry Layne herself.

One sure thing, he couldn't barge in on the Laynes around the time when most of Norwood had its Sunday dinner. He would have to wait until a decent hour. On the other hand, he didn't dare remain and meet his uncle until he found out a few things. And the old gentleman would be returning from church before so very long. The safest thing, Clay concluded, was to follow that earlier impulse and go out on the lake and mull it over there alone

It proved to be a wise conclusion.

* * *

There was the first suggestion of autumn in the hazy atmosphere over the hills. The silence was soothing to tired nerves. Memories stirred a vague longing, rather than the old hurts. When Clay went ashore after more than two hours of aimless paddling and floating, his brain felt refreshed and clear. His anger had cooled In it's place was a quiet determination, a sense of near victory. From now on, he intended to be the master of his fate....

Or know why.

His shoulders were back and his head high when he ascended the porch step, rapped on the screen door, waited.

Mrs. Layne appeared.

"Good afternoon. Is Larry at home, please?" It was no time for any formality.

"Why...why, good afternoon!" Mrs. Layne was clearly astonished, if nothing else. "No, she isn't. The girls went to see their aunt today. The bus doesn't get back until a little after five. "I'm sorry."

Nothing was said about the caller coming in.

"I'm sorry, too," Clay informed her smilingly, "but it will be quite all right if I may have a little chat with you. Can you spare me the time?"

"Why, of course...Mr. Yodel." Mrs. Layne plainly was taken back. "Won't you come right in the living-room? I'll have to ask you to excuse its looks. I was reading. The paper is scattered everywhere. I really didn't expect..."

"I don't suppose you did," Clay agreed. "I didn't either. And, the more I think of it, the gladder I am that you happened to be here alone so I could tell you some things. I think it would be best if I laid my cards all on the table at once. I love Larry and I intend to marry her. With your approval, I hope And Larry's."

"For pity's sake what are you talking about?" the mother demanded, her gray eyes wide with amazement. There also was something in her face akin to growing fear. As if it had occurred to her that this engaging young man had taken leave of his senses.

THEATER

LESLIE FENTON, former screen player, who is directing the series of "Crime Doesn't Pay," is beginning to wonder if it does or doesn't. The other day while finishing the latest of these popular and true crime stories, he went outside the studio to find that some one had stripped his car of tires, seats, radio and even the lights, and when he heached home the Fenton house had been robbed. Fenton, once a leading man, and later a "heavy," is seldom seen on the screen any more as his ambition has always been to direct. He and his wife, Ann Dvorak, spend a lot of time vagabonding over the country, and she, too, appears only occasionally.

* * *

"Kidnapped."

Arleen Whelan, said to be a sensational new find, makes her first appearance in a major role under the most favorable circumstances She is cast in support of two popular stars — Warner Baxter and Freddie Bartholomew. The story is Robert Louis Stevensons stormy chapter in English - Scotch history, "Kidnapped." The monocolor is credited with adding richness and life to pictures without the distraction of many colors. The cast includes many well known names, for besides the principal players there are C. Aubrey Smith, Reginald Owen, Ralph Forbes, John Carradine, H. B. Warner and others. "Kidnapped" opens at the Ohio theater at a midnight matince tonight and runs through Tuesday.

* * *

"Swiss Miss."

When Laurel and Hardy go to a Swiss town to sell their new mousetraps (they go to Switzerland because they think that where there is so much cheese there must be many mice,) they encounter only one man who is interested. But so interested is he that he pays them 8,000 Bovanian francs for the entire lot. It's only when they go to pay for a big dinner that they find out how much the francs are worth. And so you have a very familiar situation — two comics who can't pay for an expensive meal and have to work it out in the kitchen. But Laurel and Hardy give their own interpretation to an old plot and provide considerable hilarious comedy as a result. They have a capable cast and some new and exceedingly nonsensical stunts. The picture opens today at the Madison.

* * *

"Prison Nurse."

Henry Wilcoxon, British player who came to Hollywood to play in DeMille's "The Crusades," and Marian Marsh who made her picture debut several years ago with John Barrymore in "Svengali" are together in "Prison Nurse," a drama laid in a prison that is engulfed in the flood waters of a river. Wilcoxon is seen as a doctor who is serving time for a "mercy death." A prison break and murder build up to a dramatic climax in which a lost diary plays an important part. "Little Miss Thoroughbred" brings the two players who were together in "Alcatraz," John Litel and Ann Sheridan. The action revolves around a small orphan who runs away from a home to find her dream daddy and connects up with two race track followers who keep the youngster for luck. Both features are booked for the Majestic Sunday and Monday.

* * *

"Stage Door."

Two big drawing cards are scheduled for the Ritz tomorrow and Monday. "Stage Door," the brilliant combination of tragedy and comedy in a girl's theatrical boarding house, which give both Ginger Rogers and Katherine Hepburn outstanding roles, heads the bill. Adolphe Menjou is starred with the two feminine players, and Andrea Leeds, who plays one of the smaller roles gives it such dramatic power that it becomes one of the major characters. Gail Patrick and Constance Collier also have important parts. The second attraction is "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry" with Ronald Sinclair, C. Aubrey Smith, Judy Garland, Mickey Rooney and Sophie Tucker. The story deals with an English nobleman who brings his race horse to America in the hope of winning the Kentucky Derby.

PAM— He Deserves That Break! By A. W. Brewerton

POOR BROTHER! HE DIDN'T SEEM SO CHEERFUL, LAST TIME I SAW HIM? — THE SUSPENSE MUST BE AWFUL — DREADING THE OPERATION MAY BE A FAILURE!
6-11
AND AT DAVID'S HEADQUARTERS THE F.B.I., THEY'RE THINKING OF HIM, TOO!
YOU'RE RIGHT, CHIEF — GORDON WOULD BE JUST THE MAN TO HANDLE THIS CASE!
THE ONLY MAN I'D FEEL PERFECTLY SATISFIED PUTTING IN FULL CHARGE! MAY THE FATES DECREE HE'LL BE A WELL MAN AGAIN!
AND GRANT HE MAY BE ABLE TO GO ON, DOING SO MUCH GOOD IN THIS WORLD — —ABLE TO WALK AS HE ONCE DID!
WITH SO MANY LOYAL AND LOVING FRIENDS PULLING SO HARD FOR THE OPERATION ON HIS FOOT TO BE A SUCCESS, HOW CAN IT FAIL?
WILL DAVID GORDON, THE FEARLESS G-MAN, BE WELL AGAIN? SURELY HE DESERVES THAT BREAK! —

CITY'S BALANCE CLIMBS $50,000

Auditor's Report to Council Shows $150,000 on Hand June 1.

A report forwarded to city council today by City Auditor Paul L. Kelley showed that the city of Mansfield had a cash balance of $150,755.86 on hand as of June 1, approximately $50,000 more than the balance April 1.

The total includes $16,104.31 in the general fund, $36,600.36 in the water works fund, $6,606.42 in the garbage fund, $7,787.40 in the sanitary sewer fund, and $83,657.37 in the specials fund.

Kelley explained that the "above average" balance was due to the recent west side water collection which just closed and $21,000 from the sale of general bonds for improvement in three city departments.

2 'SURPRISE' ENTRIES FILE FOR CONGRESS

Frank Cave, Ex-Speaker Of Ohio House and Ben West To Oppose Ashbrook.

John C. Friday, Springfield township, only Republican to file for the office.

With four candidates filed for county representative to the general assembly, both parties saw the prospect today of heated battles in the Aug. 9 primary.

Ralph C. Lutz, Lexington, incumbent representative, will be opposed on the Democratic ticket by David W. Cook of Shelby, while Harry H. Maxwell of Lexington and L. Max Daugherty of Mansfield, will battle it out for the G. O. P. nomination.

Opposes Gardner, McFarland.

Claiming an important place in the 17th district primary contests will be the race for the Republican member of the state central committee. Two Mansfielders — Earl A. McFarland, former mayor, and R. B. Gardner—will be in the contest with Carl Harding, of Johnstown, who filed late yesterday.

For the same district office in Democratic ranks, E. B. Kallmerten, Richland county Democratic executive committee chairman, will be opposed by Joseph J. Dolan, Newark.

Mrs. Zella Bittinger, Ashland, is unopposed for district Democratic central committeewoman, while Louise Adkins, Newark, is the lone woman candidate for the district central committee on the Republican ticket.

Republicans were more successful than Democrats in rounding up county central committee candidates, obtaining all but one of the 92 they needed for a complete slate. Democrats lacked five in Mansfield and about the same number in the county.

Only precinct C in the Fourth ward, Mansfield, was without a Republican candidate for the central committee, while there were Democratic vacancies in precincts G and M in the First ward, B and F in the Third ward and E in the Sixth ward.

O. K. PARK PLAN

Bucyrus Councilmen Act to Get Land for Resort.

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus moved a step further toward realization of a city park Friday night when Bucyrus city council voted to instruct the city solicitor to prepare legislation designating the grounds adjoining Harmon playground as a park site.

The action was taken upon receipt of a communication from the City Citizens Park committee asking that council either approve or disapprove the park site.

Council however, declined to take action on another communication received from the park committee in which a proposal was made for the construction of a swimming pool and bath house. This was referred to the finance committee for further study.

FUNERAL HELD TODAY

BUCYRUS—Last rites were held today for Jacob E. Spiece, 84, whose death occurred Wednesday night, six months after Mr. and Mrs. Spiece had celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. Burial was made in Oakwood cemetery.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

I'D rather be poor in a fence corner, he declared, than in a back alley somewhere. And I agreed with him.

For nearly a year now, he has been out of work. For a while last winter he worked in a logging camp, for he is a wizard with horses, but lumbering is uncertain business. Before he left the woods, though he had built a shack of new, unseasoned lumber. It had two rooms, and here he cooked and slept while his work in camp continued.

When his job was at an end, there was little money for rent. His wife worked in a factory for a while, then she, too, was laid off.

They were good sports. He hauled the shack, on the lumber truck, to a suburban farm, added two rooms, covered the whole with tarred roofing to keep out the cold, and they spent the winter under their own roof. The father got occasional days of work from farmers. The two older daughters did housework in city homes. The two younger children went to school. They got along.

This spring the farm on which they had stayed was sold. The four-room shack was built in sections. They knocked it apart, loaded the parts on a truck, and unloaded again at the foot of a steep hill along a country road, beside a clear little spring-fed stream. In less than a week they had moved and were settled.

Behind their dwelling a bend in the stream encloses their half acre of garden. It is up now . . . onions and lettuce ready to eat. They help a farmer with his milking and get milk to use. A wind-power generator charges their radio battery. Their gasoline-driven washer, covered with heavy canvas, stands behind the shack. They are clean, comfortable, independent and self respecting.

When I stopped at their place the other day, they were going fishing. They told me that a larger stream into which their little run empties, provides them sport and many meals of fish. They have enjoyed a variety of early greens. There will be plenty of wild berries later on.

The patch of lawn in front of their little home is clean-cut. A grove of slim, young trees make pleasant shade nearly all day. There is the constant murmur of clear, trickling water.

"Nobody need pity these people," I thought. "They have it right. A poor man can have a richer life in the country."

Tag Day Workers Expect To Add Nearly $1,000 To Fund In 'Clean-Up.'

But then, as he ruefully admitted, he could go without quite a few lunches and never miss 'em.

Few Don't 'Believe.'

Only a very few persons refused to give because they didn't "believe in the Community Fund," and surprisingly, none of these were industrial workers, but business men. One prominent business man refused to give even a dime, but offered to buy sodas for the three girls who approached him. The girls were very pretty.

"I've given twice to the Community Fund already," said one wellknown down-towner, "but here's 50 cents—anytime you can get rid of a woman for half a dollar you're lucky."

Another woman said her husband, out of work five months, had subscribed $3 during the general campaign this year and as we thanked her and turned away, she called us. "But I'd like to give a little today—would a dime be too small to offer?"

It was, believe me, one of the finest gifts of the day.

A flock of "wooden nickels were contributed. Fifty dollars worth. A check from the "wooden nickel" fund of the Northwest Territory observance in Mansfield, was presented by the committee today to the emergency drive. One team of young women was ready to cheer this morning when a man on the street, representing a business concern, gave $20.

But in spite of the enthusiasm of the workers and the friendly attitude of the majority of people, early reports indicated that today's efforts would not bring in the hoped-for $1,000, and at the end of the emergency campaign tonight, the Mansfield Community fund still has a deficit of more than $4,000. The original goal was $53,950.

Not That It Matters

In Protest Against Tax Only On Real Estate To Provide Relief Funds

—By JANE WILLIAMS

MAYOR CLAUDE M. HUNTER, faced with the necessity of providing relief funds for the next two years, proposes a new tax on real estate—a proposition that will come before the voters of the city in August.

Why, in Heaven's name, should the citizens who own their own homes be singled out to support all of the city's unemployed when the property owners represent less than half of the employed persons of the city?

Relief is a community problem and should be treated as such. It is most unfair to single out one class of citizens and dump the burden in their laps. Let every one in the city who has a job share that burden. No one can deny that the problem is here and that we must meet it; that much as we shudder at the mere mention of new taxes, a tax is the only way to meet that need.

But WHY tax real estate? Especially in view of the fact that property is being re-appraised right now for the purpose of increasing taxes and that within the year real estate taxes will be higher than they are now.

* * *

ONE home owner expressed his ire and his reaction to the proposed tax in no uncertain terms. "The tendency of the federal, the state and now the municipal government today is to discourage thrift and good citizenship. I'm getting a little fed up with being a good citizen and therefore the goat. If the citizens of Mansfield accept this unfair and discriminating tax, I'll never contribute another penny for any civic project or charity. I'll take my contribution to the Community Fund, school benefits and church, to pay my poor relief taxes. I want to help, you understand—but every employed person in the city must help, too. It's their city as well as mine."

We ALL want to help care for the unemployed—but no one class should be forced to do it alone.

* * *

A CYNIC writes me that he is frankly tired of hearing about the Five Little Quints of Callendar, and that he doesn't like Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, either; and he thinks people who rave over them are silly.

He needn't write to me for understanding. So far as I'm concerned he can go out in the garden and eat worms. Be good for his disposition.

IN THE current edition of The Japanese American, published by Japanese interests in New York City, is an interesting statement made by Kazuo Nishi, president of the Japanese Chamber of Commerce. He says:

"It would be a gross misapprehension to consider that Japan is waging war on China . . . Japan has neither the reason nor the intention to fight the Chinese people. On the contrary it is her sincere desire to maintain peaceful and friendly relations with China."

And he explains, in a beautiful way, that it's all China's fault because she won't permit the Japanese to come in and take the territory they need for colonization. China, he points out, is the real aggressor, not Japan.

He might go further and say that if Chinese are killed when Japan's bombs drop on them, it's their own fault—they shouldn't be there when the bombs land.

Warner Brothers publicity man would say that Japan's effrontery is super colossal—it's positively terrific.

INDEPENDENT theater operators in Cleveland who have threatened to close their theaters for three days a week as a protest against the "weak pictures" Hollywood is sending out will have the sympathy of most picture fans. "Weak" is pretty mild, "lousy" would come nearer the truth.

The fact is that the industry is at exactly the same place now that it was just before the advent of talking pictures. Pictures lack lustre and spontaneity; they've become mechanical and too many new faces without talent are being introduced to take the place of experienced players. Stories are dull and the mania for "nutty" comedies was carried too far.

And in all fairness to the producers it must be remembered that catering to the unreasonable restriction of the foreign markets and the censorships of various states has taken the flavor out of many good stories, making them taste like so much bird seed or fish food.

Poor business at the motion picture theaters isn't all due to the depression; poor pictures make poor business.

5-Minute Quake Leaves London In Jitters

BUILDINGS SWAY UNDER VIOLENT EARTH TREMORS

Britishers Rush To Streets In Fright; Earth Shocks Felt In Brussels.

(By International News Service)

LONDON — Case-hardened to excitement by never-ending political crises and periodic war scares, London thrilled to a new experience today when a sharp earthquake, felt over a wide area of England and on the continent, rocked the capital.

For five minutes the city shuddered and trembled, and for 60 seconds of this time the disturbance was officially described as "intense." The quake struck at one minute before noon when the streets were jammed with pedestrians and hotels, restaurants and shops filled to capacity.

Windows Broken.

In Brussels and other cities of Belgium the quakes lasted for 20 minutes, causing minor damage such as broken windows and leaving inhabitants "dizzy." London lost its customary poise and aplomb and even Pall Mall gaped at the strange spectable of gray-moustached clubmen in striped trousers and morning coats rushing out into the street to see what had happened.

So far as England was concerned, it was the strongest tremor felt in many years. The Kew observatory recorded the epicenter as somewhere in the English channel, with some mysterious submarine disturbance responsible.

The upper floors of high buildings felt the tremors chiefly. Workers at their desks and shoppers in luxury stores heard windows rattle and felt the floors sway.

In smart west end hotels, chandeliers swung crazily from the ceilings, pictures on the walls were set awry and vases toppled to the floor from tables Telephone conversations were interrupted by a furious crackling which came over the wires.

SEES LOSS OF DITCH PROGRAM

Engineer Says Plan May Have To Be Sacrified For WPA Road, Bridge Project.

Richland county may have to sacrifice its proposed $133,000 WPA ditch program to its newer $1,000,000 county-wide road and bridge program, County Engineer Howard C. Sword had been informed today.

Deputy Engineer Walter E. Rusk, who drafted the smaller ditch project, said a conference with state WPA officials revealed there is little possibility of the county receiving approval on the ditch plan before fall, if then.

County officials said they will be pleased, however, to make the sacrifice, if it will bring final approval of the blanket project for roads and bridges.

"The larger project will be enough to supply work for most of the county's eligible WPA laborers during the summer, and we may get partial approval of the ditch program to continue the employment next winter," Rusk said

Already approved by the state and national WPA offices, the $1,000,000 project is awaiting a federal appropriation by the bureau of budgets before work will be ordered started in the county.

The rank of Eagle scout, the highest in scouting, was awarded to Floyd Myers, a member of Troop No. 15 of Mansfield, and advancement in other ranks and merit badges were presented to 125 others at an area court of honor held in conjunction with the fourth annual Boy Scout circus last night in the Coliseum at the Ashland county fairgrounds.

Two scouts, Edward Nalezinek of troop 17, Mansfield, and Harold Maxhimer, troop No. 6, Ashland, were given the bronze Eagle palm. The bronze palm is presented to the Eagle scout who earns five merit badges over the required 21 to become an Eagle scout.

The 20-year veteran badge was given to Rev. W. N. Robertson, pastor of the First Methodist church of Galion. Rev. Robertson presided over the court of honor. J. Leo Hartmann, Mansfield, chairman of the court, opened and closed the ceremonies.

The circus program, which included various scouting activities and clown acts, was staged by about 600 scouts of the area. Music was furnished by the Ashland high school band directed by Louis E. Pete.

The 600 scouts who took part in the circus camped at the fairgrounds last night, and took part this morning in the camporall competition in various scouting events. The scouts were to break camp at noon today.

Up and Down THE STREET

The merchant who went to his place of business the other morning to find it all decked out in flags and bunting was more than just a little puzzled. He didn't mind the decorations, but the reason for it had him perplexed. He looked at the calendar but found no holiday listed until July 4th, and he admitted it was rather embarrassing to be unable to explain the purpose of the decoration to inquiring customers. Finally in late afternoon someone put him wise—the district Ahepa convention which opens in Mansfield tomorrow.

There will be little difference in the hunting and auto licenses Richland countians will buy next year, Mansfield tag distributors have been notified. Not only will the hunters' tags for 1939 be made of steel the same as auto plates, but will be painted the same color—blue lettering on white background. Celluloid hunters' licenses similar to last year's will be issued again next fall.

A surprise meeting for two old friends turned into a reunion at the county board of elections office last night when Ben West of Mt. Vernon and Frank Cave, Springfield township, arrived at the same time to find each other ready to file for the Democratic nomination for congress from the 17th district. Both claimed they knew nothing of the other's intended candidacy.

Maybe it's just 'beginner's luck", but Dr. F. A. Hoffman, 99 Brickman avenue, who is working on his first flower garden this year, has managed to produce one of the exceptionally lovely roses and something of a freak. It is a President Hoover variety, and is a hybrid tea-rose, but by actual measurement is six inches across the bloom. Rose growers who have seen it, say it, is most unusual and that years of experiments by growers have not produced another like it.

POLICE TOLD GIRL DRIVEN TO MISSOURI

Victim Tells Of Answering Ad For Employment; Describes Wild Ride West.

(By International News Service)

ADRIAN, Mich.—State police and G-men today announced they had arrested Harry Van Der Cook, 26, Adrian cattle buyer, for the kidnaping of pretty Lucille Wilson, 22-year-old rural school teacher, missing since last Tuesday.

They said Van Der Cook was taken into custody when he returned to his home here.

Miss Wilson was safe at her Jasper home, 11 miles from Adrian, but "too upset" to be questioned, police said.

According to federal bureau of investigation agents and state police officials Van Der Cook told them he and Miss Wilson had gone as far as Missouri, stopping overnight in tourist camps.

He said he had left the girl at her farm home and had gone to his home where he was picked up at 2:20 a. m.

Repulsed Advances.

Miss Wilson, according to officials, told of Van Der Cook's repeated assertions they were to meet his wife "somewhere in Missouri" and that during the trip he continually made advances which she repulsed.

She told police she was forced to use her high-heeled slipper as a weapon to fight Van Der Cook off and that she had finally sat in the back of the car to discourage his advances.

Miss Wilson left her home Tuesday with Van Der Cook, from whom she had accepted employment through a newspaper advertisement which offered summer work as a companion and governess to a four-year-old child.

Police said Van Der Cook, although married, had no children.

The girl's disappearance was first reported to police Thursday night by Miss Wilson's widowed mother. She told police of the girl's disappearance and had she had secured summer employment through the advertisement.

Mrs. Wilson described Van Der Cook, who is also known as Russell Miller in Adrian. She said Van Der Cook's wife had come to her home Thursday night and told of her husband's addiction to narcotics which she claimed had impaired his mental faculties.

What specific charge will be lodged against Van Der Cook was not immediately made known. Officials said, however, he is liable to prosecution under the Mann act for taking the girl across the state line for immoral purposes. Whether the Lindbergh kidnap law applies in this case, was not known.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Credit Ledger of Free Press In U. S. More Than Makes Up For Its Errors

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Although the American press is generally admitted and can be shown to be the best in the world, there have been persistent attacks on it ever since Mr. Roosevelt first came to office. The president led these attacks and has been supported by the New Deal machine

But the only alternative to our kind of press is a controlled press, voicing the policies of the government and suppressing all criticism thereof. Rather oddly, Russia, Germany and Italy have this kind of journalism.

I have seen no suggestion of any kind of compromise plan by which the press can be cleansed of the policies of the private owners and still be kept free of the political bias of the government

Our system, though the best, still has its faults We know that some publishers use the freedom of the press to promote their selfish interests and punish their political and economic enemies But we know also the other kind, the only alternative kind, promotes policies of individual rulers and does not give the opposition a chance to say a word Our papers generally do give the opposition its say.

* * *

As against its abuses, many reforms may be cited to the credit of the American press. The papers exposed and began the destruction of the Ku Klux Klan, a fight which called for economic courage in most Klan centers and moral and physical bravery in some The demolition of Tammany Hall in New York was a press victory, and when, finally, it is decided to rescind the tax exemption of public salaries and public bonds that reform, too, will stand to the credit of the newspapers.

There are literally hundreds of local reforms which may be cited to the credit of the newspapers, many of them accomplished in the face of boycott or threats of reprisal

At present the criticism springs from the fact that most of the publishers are opposed to the New Deal's collectivism and corruption.

I say corruption because it is admittedly corrupt to buy votes, and the administration has just voted itself the money with which to buy a future for itself. WPA workers and other New Deal employes may say it is insulting to suggest that they vote as they do because they get money for their votes, but politicians are not that naive And, anyway Dear Alben Barkley has tacitly admitted that this is now being done on his behalf in Kentucky

A straw vote might show that the press opposition to the New Deal is unpopular, but that would not make it wrong It is possible that some of Mr Roosevelt's policies are wrong even ruinous.

* * *

But, whether he is right or wrong, what wrong is there in pointing out where he seems to be unwise and explaining why? No party in power ever admits that it is wrong or offers any criticism of any of its acts or policies That is the task of the opposition party and of the free press

In an affidavit filed with the court today, R. W. Elbon, investigator for the Industrial commission, charged that Beymer, a carpenter, has three or more regular employes in his business and has failed to comply with the general code that requires regular payments into the state insurance fund.

Beymer asked for continuance of the case and hearing was set for June 15.

Not That It Matters

In Protest Against Tax Only On Real Estate To Provide Relief Funds

—By JANE WILLIAMS

MAYOR CLAUDE M. HUNTER, faced with the necessity of providing relief funds for the next two years, proposes a new tax on real estate—a proposition that will come before the voters of the city in August.

Why, in Heaven's name, should the citizens who own their own homes be singled out to support all of the city's unemployed when the property owners represent less than half of the employed persons of the city?

Relief is a community problem and should be treated as such. It is most unfair to single out one class of citizens and dump the burden in their laps. Let every one in the city who has a job share that burden. No one can deny that the problem is here and that we must meet it; that much as we shudder at the mere mention of new taxes, a tax is the only way to meet that need.

But WHY tax real estate? Especially in view of the fact that property is being re-appraised right now for the purpose of increasing taxes and that within the year real estate taxes will be higher than they are now.

* * *

ONE home owner expressed his ire and his reaction to the proposed tax in no uncertain terms. "The tendency of the federal, the state and now the municipal government today is to discourage thrift and good citizenship. I'm getting a little fed up with being a good citizen and therefore the goat. If the citizens of Mansfield accept this unfair and discriminating tax, I'll never contribute another penny for any civic project or charity. I'll take my contribution to the Community Fund, school benefits and church, to pay my poor relief taxes. I want to help, you understand—but every employed person in the city must help, too. It's their city as well as mine."

We ALL want to help care for the unemployed—but no one class should be forced to do it alone.

A CYNIC writes me that he is frankly tired of hearing about the Five Little Quints of Callendar, and that he doesn't like Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, either; and he thinks people who rave over them are silly.

He needn't write to me for understanding. So far as I'm concerned he can go out in the garden and eat worms. Be good for his disposition.

IN THE current edition of The Japanese American, published by Japanese interests in New York City, is an interesting statement made by Kazuo Nishi, president of the Japanese Chamber of Commerce. He says:

"It would be a gross misapprehension to consider that Japan is waging war on China . . . Japan has neither the reason nor the intention to fight the Chinese people. On the contrary it is her sincere desire to maintain peaceful and friendly relations with China."

And he explains, in a beautiful way, that it's all China's fault because she won't permit the Japanese to come in and take the territory they need for colonization. China, he points out, is the real aggressor, not Japan.

He might go further and say that if Chinese are killed when Japan's bombs drop on them, it's their own fault—they shouldn't be there when the bombs land.

Warner Brothers publicity man would say that Japan's effrontery is super colossal—it's positively terrific.

INDEPENDENT theater operators in Cleveland who have threatened to close their theaters for three days a week as a protest against the "weak pictures" Hollywood is sending out will have the sympathy of most picture fans. "Weak" is pretty mild, "lousy" would come nearer the truth.

The fact is that the industry is at exactly the same place now that it was just before the advent of talking pictures. Pictures lack lustre and spontaneity: they've become mechanical and too many new faces without talent are being introduced to take the place of experienced players. Stories are dull and the mania for "nutty" comedies was carried too far.

And in all fairness to the producers it must be remembered that catering to the unreasonable restriction of the foreign markets and the censorships of various states has taken the flavor out of many good stories, making them taste like so much bird seed or fish food.

Poor business at the motion picture theaters isn't all due to the depression; poor pictures make poor business.

5-Minute Quake Leaves London In Jitters

BUILDINGS SWAY UNDER VIOLENT EARTH TREMORS

Britishers Rush To Streets In Fright; Earth Shocks Felt In Brussels.

(By International News Service)

LONDON — Case-hardened to excitement by never-ending political crises and periodic war scares, London thrilled to a new experience today when a sharp earthquake, felt over a wide area of England and on the continent, rocked the capital.

For five minutes the city shuddered and trembled, and for 60 seconds of this time the disturbance was officially described as "intense." The quake struck at one minute before noon when the streets were jammed with pedestrians and hotels, restaurants and shops filled to capacity.

Windows Broken.

In Brussels and other cities of Belgium the quakes lasted for 20 minutes, causing minor damage such as broken windows and leaving inhabitants "dizzy." London lost its customary poise and aplomb and even Pall Mall gaped at the strange spectable of gray-moustached clubmen in striped trousers and morning coats rushing out into the street to see what had happened.

So far as England was concerned, it was the strongest tremor felt in many years. The Kew observatory recorded the epicenter as somewhere in the English channel, with some mysterious submarine disturbance responsible.

The upper floors of high buildings felt the tremors chiefly. Workers at their desks and shoppers in luxury stores heard windows rattle and felt the floors sway.

In smart west end hotels, chandeliers swung crazily from the ceilings, pictures on the walls were set awry and vases toppled to the floor from tables. Telephone conversations were interrupted by a furious crackling which came over the wires.

SEES LOSS OF DITCH PROGRAM

Engineer Says Plan May Have To Be Sacrificed For WPA Road, Bridge Project.

Richland county may have to sacrifice its proposed $133,000 WPA ditch program to its newer $1,000,000 county-wide road and bridge program, County Engineer Howard C. Sword had been informed today.

Deputy Engineer Walter E. Rusk, who drafted the smaller ditch project, said a conference with state WPA officials revealed there is little possibility of the county receiving approval on the ditch plan before fall, if then.

County officials said they will be pleased, however, to make the sacrifice, if it will bring final approval of the blanket project for roads and bridges.

"The larger project will be enough to supply work for most of the county's eligible WPA laborers during the summer, and we may get partial approval of the ditch program to continue the employment next winter," Rusk said.

Already approved by the state and national WPA offices, the $1,000,000 project is awaiting a federal appropriation by the bureau of budgets before work will be ordered started in the county.

MANSFIELDER AWARDED HIGHEST SCOUT RANK AT ANNUAL CIRCUS

The rank of Eagle scout, the highest in scouting, was awarded to Floyd Myers, a member of Troop No. 15 of Mansfield, and advancement in other ranks and merit badges were presented to 125 others at an area court of honor held in conjunction with the fourth annual Boy Scout circus last night in the Coliseum at the Ashland county fairgrounds.

Myers, the son of Mrs. Iza M. Myers, 38 Pleasant avenue, received his Eagle badge before a crowd of more than 800 persons, the largest ever to attend this scouting event.

The annual awarding of the Hiller trophy and the President's cup also was made during the court. Troop No. 1 of Mansfield, of which Jacob Bayer is scoutmaster, received the trophy for showing the most advancements during the year, while the President's cup went to Troop No 4. of Mansfield for adding the most new scouts during the past year. L. J. Steele is scoutmaster of this troop.

Thirty-four youths received the rank of second class scout, 10 became First class scouts, 19 received the Star scout advancement, 15 became Life scouts, two received Eagle palms, one the gold quill award, and merit badges were given 66 scouts in the area.

William Fishback of troop No. 6 Mansfield received the Gold Quill award, a journalism medal. He is the first scout in the Johnny Appleseed area ever to get the award. Fishback also was given the journalism merit badge, and was advanced to a Life scout.

Two scouts, Edward Nalezinek of troop 17, Mansfield, and Harold Maxhimer, troop No. 6, Ashland, were given the bronze Eagle palm. The bronze palm is presented to the Eagle scout who earns five merit badges over the required 21 to become an Eagle scout.

Scouts who received the Life rank are Glenn Laser, Harry Laser, Richard Frye, Charles Grossman, Edward Arlin, Edwin Stiffler, Morton Frankel, William Stahl and Edward Umbarger, all of Mansfield; Harry Jackson and Glenn Sherer of Galion; Roger Pfahler, Fred Garvin and Hal Lewis of Shelby.

The rank of Star scout went to Oscar Klein, Albert Fillipelli, James Curry, Richard Lisle, Bruce Graves, Robert Cave, Jake Sternbaum, Bud Lifson and William Long of Mansfield; Irvin Hollenbaugh, Louis Wright, Robert Briggs, Stetson Oster, Eugene Keller, Paul Robinson, Lee Smith, jr., and James Roberts, Shelby; John Van Meter, Galion, and James Groff, Ashland.

Scouts who received the First class rank are Junior Murray, Howard Ammeter, Richard Fish, John Paschleich, Joseph Gerger and Richard Kessel of Mansfield; Lee Henry, Pat Merritt and George James of Ashland, and James Herbert of Shelby.

The 20-year veteran badge was given to Rev. W. N. Robertson, pastor of the First Methodist church of Galion. Rev. Robertson presided over the court of honor. J. Leo Hartmann, Mansfield, chairman of the court, opened and closed the ceremonies.

The circus program, which included various scouting activities and clown acts, was staged by about 600 scouts of the area. Music was furnished by the Ashland high school band directed by Louis E. Pete.

The 600 scouts who took part in the circus camped at the fairgrounds last night, and took part this morning in the camporall competition in various scouting events. The scouts were to break camp at noon today.

Up and Down THE STREET

The merchant who went to his place of business the other morning to find it all decked out in flags and bunting was more than just a little puzzled. He didn't mind the decorations, but the reason for it had him perplexed. He looked at the calendar but found no holiday listed until July 4th, and he admitted it was rather embarrassing to be unable to explain the purpose of the decoration to inquiring customers. Finally in late afternoon someone put him wise—the district Ahepa convention which opens in Mansfield tomorrow.

There will be little difference in the hunting and auto licenses Richland countians will buy next year, Mansfield tag distributors have been notified. Not only will the hunters' tags for 1939 be made of steel the same as auto plates, but will be painted the same color—blue lettering on white background. Celluloid hunters' licenses similar to last year's will be issued again next fall.

A surprise meeting for two old friends turned into a reunion at the county board of elections office last night when Ben West of Mt. Vernon and Frank Cave, Springfield township, arrived at the same time to find each other ready to file for the Democratic nomination for congress from the 17th district. Both claimed they knew nothing of the other's intended candidacy.

Maybe it's just 'beginner's luck", but Dr. F. A. Hoffman, 99 Brickman avenue, who is working on his first flower garden this year, has managed to produce one of the exceptionally lovely roses and something of a freak. It is a President Hoover variety, and is a hybrid tea-rose, but by actual measurement is six inches across the bloom. Rose growers who have seen it, say it, is most unusual and that years of experiments by growers have not produced another like it.

POLICE TOLD GIRL DRIVEN TO MISSOURI

Victim Tells Of Answering Ad For Employment; Describes Wild Ride West.

(By International News Service)

ADRIAN, Mich.—State police and G-men today announced they had arrested Harry Van Der Cook, 28, Adrian cattle buyer, for the kidnaping of pretty Lucille Wilson, 22-year-old rural school teacher, missing since last Tuesday.

They said Van Der Cook was taken into custody when he returned to his home here.

Miss Wilson was safe at her Jasper home, 11 miles from Adrian, but "too upset" to be questioned, police said.

According to federal bureau of investigation agents and state police officials Van Der Cook told them he and Miss Wilson had gone as far as Missouri, stopping overnight in tourist camps.

He said he had left the girl at her farm home and had gone to his home where he was picked up at 2:20 a. m.

Repulsed Advances.

Miss Wilson, according to officials, told of Van Der Cook's repeated assertions they were to meet his wife "somewhere in Missouri" and that during the trip he continually made advances which she repulsed.

She told police she was forced to use her high-heeled slipper as a weapon to fight Van Der Cook off and that she had finally sat in the back of the car to discourage his advances.

Miss Wilson left her home Tuesday with Van Der Cook, from whom she had accepted employment through a newspaper advertisement which offered summer work as a companion and governess to a four-year-old child.

Police said Van Der Cook, although married, had no children.

The girl's disappearance was first reported to police Thursday night by Miss Wilson's widowed mother. She told police of the girl's disappearance and had she had secured summer employment through the advertisement.

Mrs. Wilson described Van Der Cook, who is also known as Russell Miller in Adrian. She said Van Der Cook's wife had come to her home Thursday night and told of her husband's addiction to narcotics which she claimed had impaired his mental faculties.

What specific charge will be lodged against Van Der Cook was not immediately made known. Officials said, however, he is liable to prosecution under the Mann act for taking the girl across the state line for immoral purposes. Whether the Lindbergh kidnap law applies in this case, was not known.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Credit Ledger of Free Press In U. S. More Than Makes Up For Its Errors

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Although the American press is generally admitted and can be shown to be the best in the world, there have been persistent attacks on it ever since Mr. Roosevelt first came to office. The president led these attacks and has been supported by the New Deal machine.

But the only alternative to our kind of press is a controlled press, voicing the policies of the government and suppressing all criticism thereof. Rather oddly, Russia, Germany and Italy have this kind of journalism.

I have seen no suggestion of any kind of compromise plan by which the press can be cleansed of the policies of the private owners and still be kept free of the political bias of the government.

Our system, though the best still has its faults. We know that some publishers use the freedom of the press to promote their selfish interests and punish their political and economic enemies. But we know also the other kind, the only alternative kind, promotes policies of individual rulers and does not give the opposition a chance to say a word. Our papers generally do give the opposition its say.

* * *

As against its abuses, many reforms may be cited to the credit of the American press. The papers exposed and began the destruction of the Ku Klux Klan, a fight which called for economic courage in most Klan centers and moral and physical bravery in some. The demolition of Tammany Hall in New York was a press victory, and when, finally, it is decided to rescind the tax exemption of public salaries and public bonds that reform, too, will stand to the credit of the newspapers.

There are literally hundreds of local reforms which may be cited to the credit of the newspapers, many of them accomplished in the face of boycott or threats of reprisal.

At present the criticism springs from the fact that most of the publishers are opposed to the New Deal's collectivism and corruption.

I say corruption because it is admittedly corrupt to buy votes, and the administration has just voted itself the money with which to buy a future for itself. WPA workers and other New Deal employes may say it is insulting to suggest that they vote as they do because they get money for their votes, but politicians are not that naive. Anyway, Dear Alben Barkley has tacitly admitted that this is now being done on his behalf in Kentucky.

A straw vote might show that the press opposition to the New Deal is unpopular but that would not make it wrong. It is possible that some of Mr. Roosevelt's policies are wrong, even ruinous.

* * *

But whether he is right or wrong what wrong is there in pointing out where he seems to be unwise and explaining why? No party in power ever admits that it is wrong or offers any criticism of any of its acts or policies. That is the task of the opposition party and of the free press.

SATURDAY, JUNE 11, 1938

Drive carefully tomorrow—recklessness is an indication of ignorance.

High school graduates shouldn't plan to live on Easy street until they spend a year or two in the University of Hard Knocks.

Waterbury, Conn., taxpayers complain that they have been fleeced out of millions. If you are not interested in Waterbury, substitute the name of some other city.

Ahepa Convention Comes to Mansfield.

STARTING tomorrow and continuing through Tuesday, Mansfield is honored as the convention city for the eleventh district, Order of Ahepa, a Greek-American society which, in the sixteen years of its existence, has provided an inspiring example of the benefits that can be derived from group action in encouraging industry, good behavior and patriotism on the part of natives of other countries who have chosen the United States as their adopted land.

Not only among older residents who immigrated from Greece, but also among American youth of Hellenic descent, there has been a gratifying tendency to adapt the customs and traditions of the homeland to their new environment and to become real Americans.

Initial letters of American Hellenic Educational Progressive association provide the word "Ahepa," the purposes of which are to promote and encourage loyalty to the United States of America, allegiance to its flag, support to its constitution, obedience to its laws and reverence for its history and traditions; "to instill in every one of its members a due appreciation of citizenship and the sacred duties attendant therewith, and to encourage its members always to be profoundly interested and active participants in the political, civic, social and commercial fields of human endeavor, and always to strive for the betterment of society."

Such high purposes might well serve as a guiding star for some other groups in which the privileges and obligations of American citizenship appear to be more lightly regarded.

Mansfield extends welcome to the Greek-Americans of the Ahepa society as they come here for their convention. It is hoped that their visit will be enjoyable and beneficial and that they will find inspiration for even greater efforts in behalf of the principles they espouse.

Gradual Change Best.

ONE of the surest things about American life is that, with all our apparent liking for novelty, we take our changes in small doses.

There is talk around Detroit of revolutionary transformations in automobiles, to catch public attention and speed up the market; but old observers do not take it seriously. Doubtless the engineers and style designers could produce cars of marvelously beautiful and efficient types, but they have learned better than to try it at one swoop.

"No matter how swift or capricious in her enthusiasm," says a business writer, "America always stands conservatively for uniform appearance. Not only for this reason, but also for the sake of the owners of 1938 cars, changes must be made gradually. Manufacturers have had some experiences they do not care to repeat, as a result of making relatively new cars look obsolete. In two or three instances radical body changes have alienated customers' good will, besides creating difficult problems in the used car market."

It is much the same with furniture, clothing and other things. We can be led slowly into almost any change, but we can't be shoved into it suddenly. Innovations must come by degrees.

Another Soap Box Derby.

RECENT announcement that the Soap Box Derby will again be held in this city was probably the most important story, as far as the youths of Mansfield and Richland county are concerned, to appear in The News-Journal in months.

With the Mohican Chevrolet company and Y. M. C. A. as co-sponsors, The News-Journal last summer promoted the first Derby for the homemade motorless cars.

Nearly one hundred youngsters, ranging in ages from 9 to 15, participated in the elimination races, which attracted thousands of spectators, who formed the largest crowd ever to witness an amateur sporting event in the city.

The success of the first venture definitely establishes the Soap Box Derby in Mansfield and, apparently, grown-ups as well as youngsters are thinking forward to the day late in July when the affair will be run off on Sturges hill to select a representative for the All-American finals.

In view of all that is at stake in the amateur event, it is only natural to suspect that visions of fame and glory dominate the attention of the youths as the prepare for Mansfield's greatest sports spectacle.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

LABOR-SAVING machines will gain great headway in the next few years—due to new minimums for wages, established by law and union pacts. Thus the old dispute, men vs. machines, will rise again.

But labor is likely to be the gainer with machines—if the government can prevent monopoly. Election issues in the next few campaigns may be over monopolies. They, not the machines form the real danger.

• • •

LONG AN ISSUE.

Labor vs. machine has been an issue off and on, ever since the first machines were invented.

Henry George, the great political economist, wrote on it in his volume "Social Problems", in 1884, and his words sound as if they were written today. Said he:

"It is manifestly wrong to attribute either necessary good or necessary evil to the improvements and inventions which are so changing industrial and social relations. They simply increase power—and power may work either good or evil as intelligence controls or fails to control it."

• • •

WHY MACHINES AID.

Henry George explains how machines aid:

"If, for instance, improvements be made in the weaving of cloth and the working of iron, the effect will be that a bushel of grain will exchange for more cloth and more iron, and thus the farmer will be enabled to obtain the same quantity of all the things he wants with less labor, or a somewhat greater quantity with the same labor. And so with all other products.

"Even when the improvement is kept a secret, or the inventor is protected for a time by a patent, it is only in part that the benefit can be retained. It is the general characteristic of labor-saving improvements, after at least a certain stage in the arts is reached, that the production of larger quantities is necessary to secure the economy.

"And those who have the monopoly are impelled by their desire for the largest profit to produce more at a lower price, rather than to produce the same quantity at the previous price, thus enabling the producers of other things to obtain for less labor the particular things in the production of which the saving has been effected, and thus diffusing part of the benefit, and generally the largest part, over the whole field of industry.

"In this way all labor-saving inventions tend to increase the productive power of all labor, and except in so far as they are monopolized, their whole benefit is thus diffused. For, if in one occupation labor become more profitable than in other, labor is drawn to it until the net average in different occupations is restored.

"And so where not artificially prevented, does the same tendency bring to a common level the earnings of capital.

"The direct effect of improvements and inventions which add to productive power is always to increase the earnings of labor, never to increase the earnings of capital . . .

• • •

MONOPOLY IS BLAMED.

Yet, in many instances, capital has made the gain labor has suffered. Why?

Henry George explains:

"The great gains made by particular capitalists in the utilization of improvements are not the gains of capital, but generally the gains of monopoly, though sometimes they may be the gains of adventure or of management.

"The rate of interest, which is the measure of the earnings of capital, has not increased with all the enormous labor-saving improvements of our century. On the contrary, the tendency has been to diminish. But the requirement of larger amounts of capital, which is generally characteristic of labor-saving improvements, may increase the facility with which those who have large capitals can combine in monopolies that enable them to intercept what would naturally go to labor. This however is an effect rather than a cause of the failure of labor to get the benefit of improvements in production.

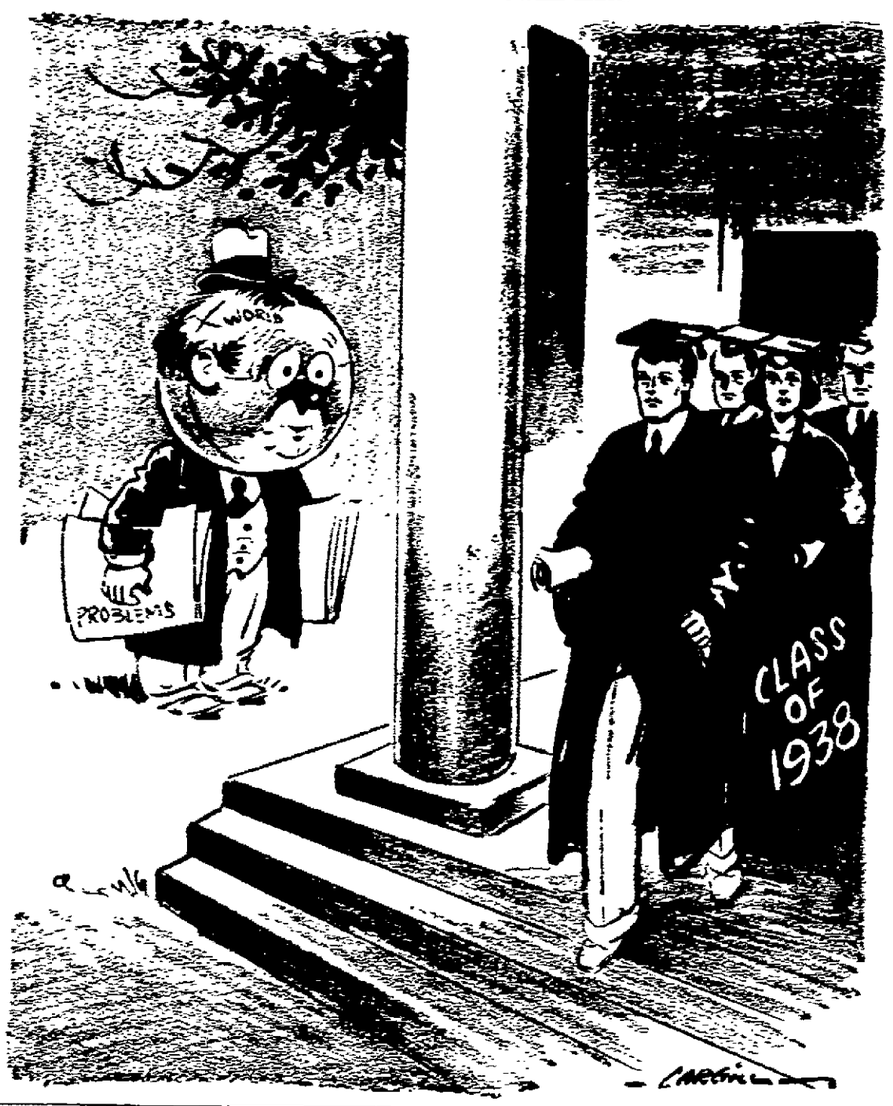
LOOKING FOR HELPERS



Relief Funds To Influence Voters

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland may have been a bit inconsistent in introducing a senate resolution, shortly before congress' adjournment, calling for a three-man senatorial committee to investigate, during the lawmakers' recess, complaints of the use of federal relief money to influence, partisanly, the pending congressional nomination and election campaign.

Maybe he was inconsistent considering that he voted against a preceding proposition to penalize, outright, any proved attempts at the exercise of such influence.

Tydings got nine other senators to sign an indorsement of his resolution.

Two of these (Senators William G. McAdoo of California and Alva B. Adams of Colorado), like Tydings, opposed penalization of the political use of relief funds. Yet, again like Tydings, they spoke for investigation during the campaign. If Tydings was inconsistent, so were they.

The other seven (Senators Walter F. George of Georgia, Edward R. Burke of Nebraska, William H. King of Utah, Robert J. Bulkley of Ohio, Robert F. Wagner of New York, Carl A. Hatch of New Mexico and Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island) were not inconsistent a bit. They voted for penalization, but were beaten. They saw investigation as the next best thing.

• • •

NOT INCONSISTENT

Possibly Senators Tydings, McAdoo and Adams were not inconsistent, after all.

I know what Tydings' reasoning was. He did not favor penalizing offenses which he can only suspect in advance. Adams was senate manager of the relief bill and did not want it tinkered with in anticipation of what may come. McAdoo is to staunch a New Dealer to admit that any administration functionary will do anything he ought to be punished for, but yet does not care to admit that he fears investigation.

I should have thought, to be sure, that Tydings would have voted for penalization. And I am surprised that McAdoo and Wagner indorsed his investigational resolution.

The remainder of the lineup was logical enough.

The Republican and miscellaneous senators all were for penalization. Tydings did no bother to seek their indorsements of his investigation resolution. He knew, all along, which side they were on. Democrats were the only ones he solicited, and he was in a hurry, with the congressional session drawing so fast to a close, or he could have had more.

Nevertheless, if Tydings and one more had switched their votes, penalization would have won. The tally was that close. It is queer that Tydings was with the anti-penalizationists. Inconsistent, I will say.

• • •

PATRONAGE—TWO KINDS

But there was nothing inconsistent in the attitude of Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, Democratic leader in the upper congressional chamber.

Barkley opposed penalization, and told clearly why.

The Kentuckian is a candidate for renomination this year. If renominated, he will, it is a foregone conclusion, be re-elected. He has, however, a strong primary opponent in Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler.

Well, there are two opposing kinds of political "pap" to be dished out in that state:

1. Federal "pap," which, presumably, Barkley controls.

2. State "pap," which, presumably Chandler controls.

Now, congress, by penalizing federal "pap," could have choked off Barkley's supply of it. But it could not have interfered with Governor Chandler's state supply.

Naturally this would have worked to Barkley's disadvantage.

• • •

BARKLEY'S ARGUMENT

The Kentucky senator, in fighting federal penalization, explained how unfair this would be.

"We all know," he said, "that there is not a state in which political organization does not prostitute for its own purposes, the employment of men and women."

Therefore it is most unjust not to permit federal "prostitution," too?

Vitamin H Is Late Discovery, Physician Tells About It

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

NEW VITAMINS constantly are being found. Until a short time ago we got down the alphabet as far as E with vitamins, and the most important ones appear to be A, B, C, D and E. These substances which are present in our food do not contribute to nutrition, but they influence in some mysterious way a number of functions of the body.

Vitamin H is one of the latest to be discovered. The story of Vitamin H begins with the observations of Abram Dugas's who found that rats studied under experimental conditions could not live unless fed fresh meat. Extending their observations they found that at least four animals including chickens, dogs and man required this vitamin. It influences growth and is necessary for growth. Vitamin H is also present in fresh tomatoes of which one is told over and over.

Most herbivorous animals require a vitamin which is present in fresh grasses notably in alfalfa. Thus grass juice vitamin does not appear to be necessary for man.

Vitamin K.

Vitamin K is the coagulation vitamin. A Danish worker Professor Dam found that there was a dietary factor concerned in the property of the blood to coagulate. It is present in vegetables and especially grasses. The highest concentration of Vitamin K occurs in alfalfa juice.

It has been used in concentrated form in the treatment of jaundice. It is a well known fact that patients with jaundice are liable to hemorrhages. Apparently bile in the blood tends to prevent the blood from coagulating. This is very important in those cases of jaundice due to gallstones when operation is necessary. There is a great deal of danger in operating on such a patient due to the possibility of hemorrhage. The preparation of these patients with the use of Vitamin K has resulted in a striking drop in the amount of hemorrhage which might occur after operation.

Vitamin J has been postulated as a factor which helps to prevent infection. It is found in fresh fruit juices.

The future of work in new vitamins is probably in the hands of the biologists rather than that of physicians. It has been the biologist, working with animals on a test diet, who has discovered most of the new vitamins mentioned here today.

TALL, dignified, white-haired, ex-county attorney, elected to the U. S. senate after serving in the house—that describes both Sen. Guy M. Gillette and ex-Sen. L. J. Dickinson.

They were nominated for the senate Monday in Iowa, Gillette by Democrats, Dickinson by the Republicans.

Gillette overwhelmingly defeated Rep. Otha Wearin, James Roosevelt's "friend" and the man WPA Administrator Hopkins would have voted for. Gillette's backers included Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel and Sen. Clyde L. Herring.

Gillette had voted for many Roosevelt measures—but not the plan to enlarge the supreme court. He declared he was loyal to the president but not a "rubber stamp" senator.

Dickinson defeated Rep. Lloyd Thurston, who had vied with him in denouncing the New Deal.

Remarks Afterwards.

Gillette was the first of the court bill's Democratic opponents to go before the voters this year. His victory led Montana's Sen. Burton K. Wheeler and Nebraska's Sen. Edward R. Burke, leader in the fight against the court plan, to predict that administration spokesmen would be chary in intervening in other primary contests.

Gillette himself said it would "give that left-wing group which started out to control the party (presidential) nomination in 1940 a very great incentive to stop and think."

Republican National Chairman Hamilton interpreted the result as "a slap by the Democrats of Iowa at White House interference." Democratic National Chairman Farley, James Roosevelt and Agriculture Secretary Wallace congratulated Gillette. The president said he would have felt free to express his views the way Hopkins did if he, like Hopkins, had been born and educated in Iowa. And Hopkins said Gillette's renomination showed WPA was not playing politics.

QUOTES

Dr. Frank Buchman, Oxford Group leader: "America must rearm morally."

Mexico's President Lazaro Cardenas: "This government has stretched out its hand to the humble and will triumph or fall with them."

Col. Theodore Roosevelt: "If every city west of the Mississippi were wiped out . . . the sum total of human misery would be far less than that which exists in China today."

Secretary of State Hull: "There was never a time in our national history when the influence of the United States in support of international law was more urgently needed."

Washington

Congress on Last Lap.

In the spring a congressman's fancy gravely turns to thoughts of votes. And congress was thinking about next fall as it waddled down the home stretch this week. Republicans threatened to make the senate's recent refusal to restrict relief workers' political activities a major issue. A senate investigation of politics in relief was urged by some Democrats.

Both houses previously had passed spending-lending and wage-hour legislation. But the relief bill totaled $3,723,000,000 as passed by the senate and only $3,154,000,000 as passed by the house, and the senate's wage-hour plan only slightly resembled the houses' so there was still work to do.

While conferees struggled with these matters, other legislators shoved along a $274,000,000 deficiency appropriation and a scad of lesser measures. WPA, PWA, the navy and other governmental offices hummed with plans for handling anticipated funds. And the president okayed the senate's addition of $175,000,000 to the WPA item in the lending-spending bill.

Wage-Hour Compromise.

Congress's wage-hour conferees decided Wednesday that the minimum pay for an hour's work in an interstate industry should be 25 cents during the first year of regulation, 30 cents the second year, and 40 cents at the end of seven years, except in industries where a 40-cent wage would cause unemployment.

Under this plan, administration of the act would be under the labor department. The president would appoint an administrator, who would appoint boards for different industries. Those boards would examine conditions and make recommendations.

The conferees said the maximum working week should be 44 hours during the first year and 40 hours later on.

• • •

Monopoly Debate.

An anti-trust inquiry was recommended this week by the senate judiciary committee, and Democratic Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney declared such an investigation would help restore prosperity "by opening the door for private enterprise" but Republican Sen. Warren R. Austin feared the president might use such an inquiry "to punish" his opponents.

The federal trade commission informed congress, meanwhile, that eight big firms dominate the farm machinery and implement manufacturing industry and that dealers have been forced to sell certain manufacturers' products exclusively.

At Home

NLRB Testimony Bounces.

Testimony given previously at NLRB hearings by some of the 44 Harlan county Kentuckians being tried at London, Ky., for conspiring to prevent unionization of miners was cited this week by the prosecutors. Despite defense objections, a federal judge ruled it had been given voluntarily and was admissable.

That was one victory for the government. Another was the judge's dismissal of charges that a government agent had interfered with efforts to obtain evidence for the defense.

Prison Without Bars.

At Stringtown, Okla., a state prison without bars—where there is no barrier to escape save the inmates' word of honor—was dedicated this week. Farming, masonry, cabinet making, etc., will be taught there.

"Half the prisoners in the state penitentiary could neither read nor write," Gov. E. W. Marland explained. "They had never read a law. They were in the penitentiary through ignorance. Education is the only solution."

Bigger—And Fiercer?

While a 25-ton transport plane and a 41½-ton clipper were making test hops on the west coast this week, the U. S. navy revealed plans for a plane of possibly 50 tons. If built, it will cost upwards of $3,000,000 (four times as much as the army's 32-ton "flying fortress" type), be partially armored, and carry a crew of from 10 to 14 men.

• • •

Body and Money.

Jimmy Cash, 5, of Princeton, Fla., was kidnaped May 28. His father paid $10,000 ransom, rewards totaling $5,000 were posted and President Roosevelt asked congress to provide $5,000 to press the investigation.

Hundreds of men had searched for Jimmy in vain and had about given up hope. Then, early Thursday morning G-men said the body of the boy and the ransom money had been found not far from the Cash home.

And, FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover added, a 21-year-old truck driver, Franklin McCall, confessed the crime.

Science

Deserts In the Sky.

Where cosmic rays come from, and why, is one of this century's scientific mysteries. They have been studied now near both the equator and the North Pole, and from mountain tops, balloons, mines and the labyrinth of freight tunnels under Chicago's skyscrapers.

And Dr. Robert Millikan of the California Institute of Technology has a new theory—that there are vast deserts in the sky where matter shrivels up and blows away. Transformation of matter into energy in regions where there is little matter, he thinks, may be responsible for the penetrating bombardment of the earth by these strange, minute, electrical bullets.

Electricity In Mind.

The human brain has an electrical pulse. Mental disorders affect it. So do some drugs.

Harvard doctors have devised a way to take this pulse and think ways of using drugs to cure or at least ameliorate some mental disorders may be found. McGill university physicians, meanwhile, have made some progress in using electricity to make brains behave differently.

This and more such news trickled out of the American Psychiatric association's 94th annual meeting, attended by 1,000 brain specialists, this week in San Francisco.

People

Rapids Shooters.

Few men have ridden through the Colorado river's tumultuous rapids. The only woman known to have tried it vanished.

But this coming week two women and five men will leave Green River, Utah, in two boats on a 60-mile exploratory trip that will take them into those rapids. The women are University of Michigan botanists.

• • •

Chicago's Sleeper.

Patricia Maguire, Chicago stenographer who died last September of sleeping sickness, had slept five years and seven months.

This week was the 11th week that another Chicago girl—blond, curly-haired, two-year-old Mary Ellen Reardon—has slept. Anxious watchers saw her eyelids flutter—that was all.

Gee Whiz!

A Tonawanna, N. Y., couple who already had a child in every class in grade school named their 11th child, born recently, "Enough."

An armless youth who writes with a pencil clenched between his teeth has been graduated from the University of Pittsburgh.
